Why Do They Do It?

Prisoners Give Views Of William Head Escapes

(Since the experimental "minimum security" wing of the B.C. Penitentiary was opened at William Head seven months ago six men have escaped. As there are no bars or walls to the prison, an escape is easily engineered. But the whole purpose of the institution is one of rehabilitation for men who it is felt can be made to fit into society again and they are more or less on their honor not to run away. Why then do they do it? They are almost certain to be caught and must then go back to the walled pen at New Westminster and serve extra time. Times reporter David Cowlishaw spent Tuesday afternoon talking to the inmates to find the answer. He was given full run of the establishment and talked to the men without supervision or presence of guards. The only condition was that he would not quote any prisoner by name. In the following article he sums up their stories.)

By DAVID COWLISHAW

They were young, they were tempted by the blue far-off horizon they could see through the open door, and they were bedevilled by a whim.

This, volunteered in a myriad of forms, is the persistent trinity of reasons advanced by William Head inmates Tuesday for six escapes from the "open" penitentiary in the last two months.

There were other explanations, of course, but more than half of some 40 prisoners interviewed put forward one, two or all of the above solutions.

"None of the escapees was much more than a boy," said a Vancouver man serving four years for rape.

"I knew three of them very well. They weren't bored or frustrated or really unhappy or anything like that. They simply couldn't stand the sight of those mountains in the distance."

At least 22 prisoners suggested the youth of the escapees as Reason Number One for the breaks. A dozen or so put the finger on the tantalizing glimpse William Head affords of the blue Juan de Fuca Strait and the seemingly beckoning land at the other side.

A few others plumped for the whim, "the sudden urge to get back to the outside," as several put it.

Majority Reasons for Escape

A majority gave these reasons for the rash of escapes:

- Boredom.
- "Double-cross" by parole officials.

• Domestic problems.

• The attitude of at least two of the escapees that they had "nothing to lose" by breaking out.

• Preference by some of the six for another term in prison to the frightening prospect of competing as ex-convicts for jobs on the outside.

• Sex.

• Guards who "don't like us."

In addition, two men said the four youths who engineered the second break in June had been drinking "home-made brew" and didn't know what they were doing, but this idea was discounted by most other inmates interviewed.

Many prisoners became surprisingly bitter when the youth of the escapees—one was 19, one 21, one 22, two 23 and one 25—was mentioned.

"Those Ottawa guys who thought it was a smart idea to put kids like that in a place as open as this ought to have their heads examined," snapped a 40-year-old man in for robbery.

"You can't expect young men to be happy sitting around fishing or watching television all day."

An Animal Put In a Cage

Said a Victoria man almost at the end of a five-year term for bank robbery, "Ever seen an animal put in a cage? The human mind is a funny thing. When you're young you do what you want and to hell with the consequences."

"Those kids wanted to get out. They wanted women. Some of them had only a few more weeks to go but they just couldn't stew any longer."

Seven inmates seemed almost to have compared notes in their conviction that location of the experimental station was at the bottom of the escapes.

"A fellow who works outside and looks at the green trees and blue water all day gets some funny ideas when the gates clang shut," volunteered one 32-year-old prisoner.

"It's not human to make a man stare at these things all day. It's like hanging a carrot over a donkey's head. It's crazy."

Several men said they had to control a strong whim or inclination to flee William Head—even for a few hours for which they would have to pay dearly—and understood how, according to them, the escapees must have felt.

Commented one crew-cut youth leaning against the television room door, "I'd get out of here myself if I had guts enough."

Fierce Natural Drives

Inmates felt young men in the words of one man, "It hasn't hurt us any."

"Oh sure," he said. "They have put grills on the windows and taken the doors off the dormitories so the guards can see us better and count us quicker, but everybody knows that's just to keep the public happy."

"There haven't been any

Fact Probe Urged by Steel Union

Costly Walkout Starts In U.S.

(Times News Services)

NEW YORK — The Steelworkers' Union today proposed the industry agree to submit strike issues to a fact-finding board to be headed by a neutral person selected by Chief Justice Warren of the United States.

David J. McDonald, Steelworkers' Union president, made the proposal in a letter to the industry's four-man negotiating team.

McDonald proposed that the industry and union agree to the fact-finding procedure to sift the facts involved in all strike issues.

However, industry sources in Pittsburgh saw little chance of acceptance of the proposal and the most costly strike in U.S. history appeared in the making.

The walkout — the sixth by the big steelworkers union since the Second World War — started officially at 12:01 a.m. EDT when a two-week extension of the previous wage agreement expired.

McDonald left New York City, scene of 10 weeks' fruitless negotiations with the industry, Tuesday night to appear before cheering workers at a strike rally of employees of U.S. Steel Corporation's Fairless works at Morrisville, Pa.

The union gave no indication of retreating from its demand for higher wages and improved fringe benefits. Just as steadfastly, the industry stuck to its position that it could not increase production costs and must be able to instigate some economies.

Those were the basic positions when negotiations began 10 weeks ago. They remained unchanged as the strike began.

The walkout shut off 90 per cent of the American steel-making capacity and threatened to slow down the entire U.S. economy, booming once more after a serious recession.

At the urging of President Eisenhower, director Joseph Finnegan of the federal mediation and conciliation service arranged separate meetings this afternoon in New York with representatives of the industry and union.

UNION BOSS LOOKS ON AS TV CAMERA WRECKED

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company said today that David J. McDonald, Steelworkers' Union president, allowed two aides to wreck a television camera because he was angered over a question asked him in Trenton, N.J., Tuesday night.

The question was whether McDonald's career would be affected by the steel strike he ordered Tuesday midnight, NBC said. McDonald refused to answer the questioner, Tom Pettit for NBC's Philadelphia affiliate, WRC-TV, and demanded the film be given him, the network said.

When Pettit refused, two unidentified men with McDonald smashed the camera on the sidewalk and wrecked sound and lighting equipment, NBC charged.

There was no immediate comment from McDonald on the story.

Cut Your Price' West Urges Reds

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers urged the Soviet Union at the Big Four foreign ministers conference today to lower its price for an 18-month truce in the Berlin crisis.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at once rejected the appeal.

He said his proposal for a truce was directly linked with his plan for creation of an East-West German committee to negotiate on unification and it was impossible to change that fact.

ALLIED ARGUMENT

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, speaking for the Western allies, argued against the Soviet plan for a German committee.

He said the Soviet proposal only reopened earlier discussions on broad German political issues in Geneva that already had resulted in failure to reach agreement.

The problem of reaching a stop-gap agreement on Berlin is separate from the broader issues of German unity and a peace treaty de Murville insisted.

The French minister said Russia's linking the two elements "frankly does not appear to me to facilitate conclusion of an agreement."

Heavy Schedule Facing Monarch

Victoria is getting ready today to pull out all the stops to assure Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip a truly Royal welcome to B.C.'s capital Thursday afternoon.

The word everywhere was: "We're all set."

Downtown assumed a gala air as flags and bunting were broken out to add to civic decorations already strung across the main thoroughfares.

The Royal pair will go first to Government House to be received by Lieutenant-Governor Frank and Mrs. Ross. Mayor P. B. Scurrah will then be presented, along with service and civic dignitaries.

They will then be driven to the Legislative Buildings, via

NEW WESTMINSTER — Two groups of shut-ins saw the Queen this morning—35 gardening prisoners at the federal penitentiary here and about 100 retarded youngsters brought to streets by nurses of Woodlands School.

They were part of the crowd which gathered long before the procession.

The viewing of royalty by the prisoners was almost accidental. And though they may be considered unwilling guests of the crown they appeared as excited and impressed as any one else when the Queen and Prince Philip drove by the vegetable garden where they were working.

The prisoners were stripped to the waist and bronzed in the sun.

They leaned on their hoes and rakes and smiled, as if mindful that, due to the royal visit, their sentences were reduced.

The crowds along the streets and at the railway station were not as thick as those which cheered Princess Margaret on her visit here a year ago. At the high point of the tour today, the visit to a children's rally at Queen's Park, half the bleacher seats were empty.

The Royal City first greeted its monarch at the CNR railway station. There was an honor guard of 12 Imperial veterans, proud in brown berets and medals, none prouder than 32-year-old John Middleton, who served most of his life in the merchant marine.

QUEEN OPENS DEAS TUNNEL

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip thrilled about 5,000 spectators today with a brief visit to British Columbia's new $23,000,000 Deas Island Tunnel for its official opening.

The large, enthusiastic crowd at the tunnel, 15 miles southwest of here, was a marked contrast with a sparse turnout here earlier.

The Queen snipped a blue ribbon with a pair of silver shears handed her by Premier Bennett to open the tunnel, part of a four-lane freeway under the Fraser River which will eventually extend from Vancouver to the United States border.

A group of carpenters worked on a new construction opposite the station until the train arrived, and from a vantage point high above the heads of everyone else, they waved and cheered.

VANCOUVER — The city's board of administration has been given the job of figuring out how dogs may be summonsed.

A special committee of city council recommended Tuesday night pound officers be given authority to issue "tickets similar to traffic tickets" for dogs without licences or caught running wild on the streets.

Corporation counsel Russell Baker said complicated legislation permits police to serve parking tickets by tucking them under windshield wipers but "I don't see how that could be done with dogs."

The problem was passed to the board of administration for study.

CANADIANS HURT IN U.S.

Dozing Passengers Awakened by Crash

ALEXANDRIA, Minn. (AP) — More than a score of persons were injured when a Winnipeg-to-Chicago Greyhound bus went out of control and tipped over on its side near here during a heavy rainstorm Tuesday night.

Twenty persons, many of them Canadians, were treated at the Douglas County Hospital here and police said at least another half dozen were taken to Mercy Hospital. None was believed severely hurt. Most passengers were asleep or dozing when the smash came.

Dick Sartell, driver of the eastbound bus, refused to discuss the accident. He was not hurt.

Francoise Mechelet, 26, of Toronto, said he was riding in the rear of the upper deck when the bus began to swerve from side to side.

THROWN OUT

"I was dozing when the rocking of the bus woke me up," Mechelet said. "Before I could gather my senses, the bus tipped over and I was thrown out, either through a window or the skylight, I don't know which."

"When I came to I was tangled up in a barbed wire fence in a field." He was treated for minor bruises at Mercy Hospital and released.

Unhurt passengers were taken to Alexandria hotels for the night, along with those released after treatment. Police said there were five or six stretcher cases among the injured, mostly with back injuries.

Reporting Confessions Press Puzzle

OTTAWA (CP) — Concern that newspapers "will be in a complete fog" about when they can report court confessions was expressed Tuesday night by Senator W. Ross Macdonald, Opposition Leader in the Senate.

He said he doubts whether newspapers will understand the section in a government bill, amending the Criminal Code, that deals with the subject. The bill was approved by the Senate banking committee with one minor technical change.

Senator Macdonald was told that the proposed amendment is designed to block out reporting of any confession submitted at preliminary hearings until the subsequent trial—if any—is completed.

Thus, prospective jurors for the trial would not be liable to have their views of the case colored by news reports, just as department witnesses said.

Once the confession was admitted by the trial court, it could be reported—but there could be no mention that it was entered at the preliminary hearing stage.

Attacked Policemen

VANCOUVER — William Grant, 26, Tuesday was sentenced to six months in prison for assaulting two police constables and carrying an offensive weapon.

His wife testified in police court that he had been so drunk he did not realize what he was doing when he attacked two constables with paring knives. He slashed one policeman in the stomach and kicked the other in the groin when they entered Grant's apartment here after hearing Mrs. Grant scream for help.

CLC Expert Will Probe B.C.'s Labor Disputes

VANCOUVER (CP) — The James Hoffa, International Teamsters' Union president, has sent one of its chief trouble-shooters into British Columbia in an attempt to restore order in the province's strife-torn labor field.

William Dodge, executive vice-president of the 1,000,000 labor body, arrived here Tuesday night from Ottawa.

He refused to comment on the numerous strikes, court injunction and inter-union rivalry here. But he said he will look into the various disputes to get first-hand information and help bring settlements if possible.

The congress takes its responsibilities in a situation of this kind seriously," he said.

Today he will meet with officials of the Teamsters' Union and B.C. Labor Council.

More than 45,000 men now are on strike, threatening to strike, or out of work as a direct result of walkouts in B.C. A majority are members of CLC affiliates.

There were two rays of hope amid the turmoil which has sapped about $24,000,000 from the province's economy since July 1.

Marathon negotiations between Northland Navigation Company and the National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) were reported close to agreement.

The engineers struck June 26 in support of a 20-percent wage increase over their basic rate of $330 a month. It jelled into a jurisdiction dispute when the CLC-expelled Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) crossed N.A.M.E. picket lines and began to load Northland ships.

BACKED DOWN

This brought in the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen Union (CLC) and the B.C. Labor Council who supported N.A.M.E. The SIU backed down when the Canada Labor Relations Board ruled N.A.M.E. has jurisdiction over Northland employees.

Imagine driving a gas turbine car like this!

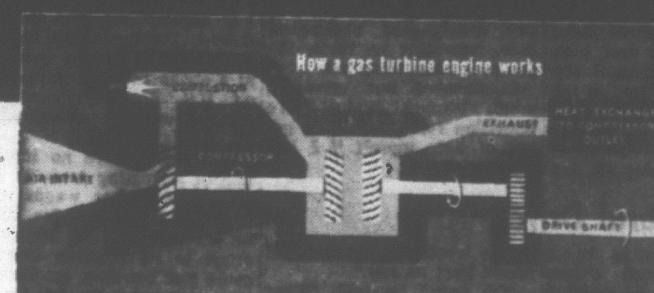

In the not too distant future, you may be seeing gas turbine cars, trucks and buses. They're under development... and Inco Nickel is helping make them a reality.

Your car of the future will have smooth power to spare—yet the engine will be smaller and lighter. It will run on lower grade fuels like kerosene. But the engine will be hot—jet hot! That's where Inco Nickel comes in. At temperatures in the 1600°F. range, ordinary metals aren't good enough. Special heat-resisting nickel alloys are needed to take this blistering punishment... to withstand stress, corrosion and fatigue at high temperatures. And Inco research is helping develop just such alloys.

Nickel, of course, is also used for the heavy protective plating on bumpers, grilles and trim, and nickel-containing stainless steel for wheel covers. It goes into the strong, durable alloy steels that make the gears and shafts of cars and trucks equal to grueling wear on the road. In your present car and your car of the future—you can rely on quality Inco Nickel to give you dependable service.

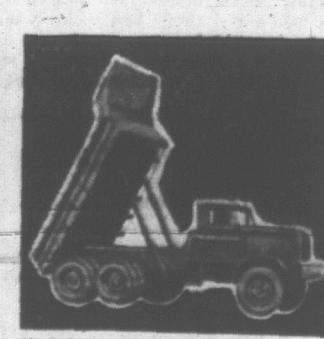

Write for a free copy of "The Exciting Story of Nickel."

A gas turbine engine works something like a windmill. Spun by hot gases from the combustion chamber, the turbine or "windmill" powers the turbocar. Designers are relying on nickel alloys to withstand the high temperatures of future gas turbine cars, trucks and buses.

Bright, durable nickel-chromium plating provides a protective coating that gives lasting beauty in depth to new car trim.

Nickel imparts strength and toughness to steel. Nickel alloy steels used for car and truck parts withstand severe use and abuse.

Newfoundland Aid Sparks New Fight

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Despite Prime Minister Diefenbaker's personal and vehement intervention, federal legislation on special financial aid to Newfoundland got jammed in the Commons legislative mill Tuesday.

Sharp, protracted political infighting prevented the controversial bill from receiving second reading — approval in principle — with the Liberals contending the government was guilty of a breach of faith and the Conservatives replying that their opponents were making exaggerated, unfair statements.

The bill was before the House again today with a fair chance of some progress towards passage since the members are gunning for a Saturday prorogation of the parliamentary session.

Under the bill, the government proposes to give Newfoundland $36,500,000 — up to March 31, 1962, cutting off payments there and promising a subsequent review of the province's special financial needs.

Opposition Leader Pearson charged the 1962 cutoff date represented a repudiation of the 1949 terms of Newfoundland's union with Canada.

"It is a breach of faith with the people of Newfoundland," he said.

Seemingly angry, Prime Min-

Senate Action Arouses Opposition

House got into another wrangle when Finance Minister Fleming put forward a motion accepting a Senate amendment to the Income Tax Act but emphasizing this was not to be taken as a precedent.

The Commons earlier had approved government changes in the act including one affecting the official status of foreign companies. The Senate then amended this legislation.

Both Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF House Leader Hazen Argue pointed out that the Senate, under the constitution, must accept or reject legislation affecting government income or spending. It could not initiate such legislation nor alter it.

Speaker Roland Michener cited a Commons rule that says all money bills "are the sole gift of the House of Commons" and must begin in the lower House. They "are not alterable by the Senate," the rule says.

At one point Mr. Argue said that if the Senate — made up of appointed members — continues in future in "this very regrettable practice" the Commons — whose members are elected by the people — should consider how it can make certain that its rights over money legislation are not "usurped" by the Upper House.

Both Mr. Fleming and Prime Minister Diefenbaker argued that the Senate amendment could be accepted by unanimous consent of the Commons. They pointed to a couple of past occasions on which similar Senate amendments had been accepted in such a way.

permits politics

Reforms Promised For Iraq

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's premier Abdel Karim Kassem publicly announced Tuesday night he will permit party political activity to resume in Iraq within six months.

The premier made this statement in an address to a graduating class of the Iraqi Military Academy. The speech was broadcast from Baghdad and monitored here.

The premier told the cadets, and by radio to the nation, that parties can act again beginning next Army Day Jan. 6, 1960.

Freedom of political party activity is one of the biggest demands the Communists have made on Kassem.

BANNED AFTER REVOLT

Such activity was banned after the July 14 revolution which destroyed Iraq's monarchy last year.

Kassem coupled his pledge with an announcement that his regime will promulgate a new constitution and hold free elections for a new national assembly within 18 months.

Kassem's junta now governs by decree without reference to any parliamentary body.

In another speech, at the dedication of a new Moslem mosque in Baghdad, Kassem pledged complete freedom of religion.

"Religions are free in this country," he said, "and we are proud of that fact. All our people are free to practise their creeds."

'Red' Tag Stirs Castro

HAVANA (AP) — What is the truth about Communist infiltration in Cuba's revolutionary regime?

The former chief of Cuba's air force told a U.S. Senate committee in Washington that Premier Fidel Castro is himself a Communist and heads a Red dictatorship.

Cuban officials from Castro down angrily scoffed at this testimony. They called Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz a liar and a deserter and traitor who sold out to interests opposing Cuba's revolutionary program.

Castro admits there are Communists in his rebel army. He says that at the time he was fighting dictator Fulgencio Batista, he didn't stop to examine a man's politics if he wanted to help.

NO MAJOR PART

Castro denies emphatically, however, that Communists are playing a major part in Cuba's political life.

"Ours is not a Communist revolution," he says, "it is a Cuban revolution."

Critics also claim Castro's brother and heir apparent, Raul, commander-in-chief of the armed forces, is at least friendly to the Communists.

There also have been complaints that a special commission rewriting the textbooks for Cuba's schools is Communist tinged and that its political beliefs are reflected in the new texts.

There also have been complaints that a special commission rewriting the textbooks for Cuba's schools is Communist tinged and that its political beliefs are reflected in the new texts.

Cuban officials from Castro down angrily scoffed at this testimony. They called Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz a liar and a deserter and traitor who sold out to interests opposing Cuba's revolutionary program.

Castro admits there are Communists in his rebel army. He says that at the time he was fighting dictator Fulgencio Batista, he didn't stop to examine a man's politics if he wanted to help.

NO MAJOR PART

Castro denies emphatically, however, that Communists are playing a major part in Cuba's political life.

"Ours is not a Communist revolution," he says, "it is a Cuban revolution."

Critics also claim Castro's brother and heir apparent, Raul, commander-in-chief of the armed forces, is at least friendly to the Communists.

Awaiting Our Royal Visitors

THE PEOPLE OF THIS CAPITAL, poised to greet the Royal visitors tomorrow, have doubtless been impressed by a characteristic note in recent reports on the tour of Her Majesty and Prince Philip.

Since the Queen reached the West, much of the tension of more formal events in eastern Canada has been eased. Opportunities have been given for relaxation. A very human appreciation has been shown for the strain of a long journey, countless appearances and functions.

As they reach Vancouver Island and come to Victoria for the Pacific turning point of their tour, their schedule is full, but allows time for rest.

Their intent, announced long before the tour began, is to see as much of Canada and its people as possible with a minimum of formality. The success of our welcome to them will be measured by the degree to which we make that objective possible.

The Queen and Prince Philip are touring this nation to see and to be seen. They come in a dual capacity. Her Majesty is the symbol of the Commonwealth, our ruling monarch, the Crown. She is also a young woman of proven grace and charm discharging duties which, however pleasant and satisfying to her, are also demanding on her physical resources.

There can be no question about the warmth of the welcome extended here, both to her as a person and to her as a revered institution.

It is a happy situation, indeed, which combines for Victorians and other Canadians the two personalities in an individual so uniquely endowed for the tasks and responsibilities which are hers.

The events arranged for the occasion are particularly suitable. In contrast to military and naval spectacles of impressive character will be a garden party admirably conceived to bring into close contact with her so many of our people from different walks of life.

With keen anticipation this community looks forward to the arrival of the Royal party, has made its plans to bring the Queen to as many citizens as possible, particularly the children, and counts with assurance on the depth of feeling and consideration displayed by the public to demonstrate the affection and loyalty in which she is held.

Revising the Vision

THE CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS of the parliamentary committee on mines, forests and waters are showing an admirable independence as they take a second look at Mr. Diefenbaker's vision of the north.

While condemning some policies of the former Liberal Government, the committee finds that the present Government is merely stepping up development projects from the past "resulting in continuing injurious use of government funds... The manner in which funds have been spent on northern undertakings is open to justifiable criticism."

The committee's report is highly critical of Mr. Alvin Hamilton, minister of northern affairs and national resources, especially in his management of northern forests. These timber resources, though remote, are so important that the committee believes a new department should be established to administer them.

The Canadian Travel Bureau, under Mr. Hamilton's control, was also criticized. Promotion of tourism, the committee says, should "become the single responsibility of a more senior official of government."

Summing up the committee's report, Mr. Charles Lynch, chief correspondent of the Southam newspapers in Ottawa, reports: "The committee, after long look at the department of northern affairs and national resources, and a massive series of briefs from interested parties outside the Government, finds that the policies on northern affairs are misguided and those on national resources neglected."

In conclusion the committee says that "the major part of the solution lies in policy changes as well as in departmental and inter-departmental efficiency reform, with all that the latter implies."

This is a candid, honest, not to say brutal, report by a committee of Conservatives on one of the Government's most cherished and best advertised objectives. The main trouble seems to be that the Government is spending too much money on some unimportant things and neglecting the important ones. In other words, it is necessary to reassess the Vision and if he is wise Mr. Hamilton will do so.

In This City of Homes

IT COMES AS A MILD SHOCK TO this city of homes and gardens to learn that the Capital Region Planning Board is embarking on a survey of "slum" conditions here.

The expert planners make no apology for using the word. Some residential property in the community is of such a sub-standard nature that the unattractive adjective fits.

But the planners hasten to add that Victoria stands highest in the top 15 metropolitan areas in Canada as far as adequate housing is concerned. There is not an extensive area of blight imposing adverse social conditions on any particular district. Scattered through several localities, however, are examples of poor housing that should be remedied.

The extent to which rundown buildings should be demolished will no doubt form part of the survey report. When it is completed, civic prudence dictates that action be taken. What is bad, or slum-like, now will scarcely improve without tearing down the unsatisfactory structures—and by rough estimate they amount to about 5 per cent—and replacing them with something better.

There is possibly another advantage in the report of the planners' intended survey. It may induce a certain degree of justified humility into somewhat house-proud Victoria.

The Honest Politician

AS A POST SCRIPT TO THE recent Ontario election it is to be noted that Mr. Donald Mac- Donald, the CCF leader, won few votes but at least he didn't deceive the public. With unique candor he promised that, if elected, his party would increase taxes.

He even specified the taxes that the CCF would increase, so that the public would be left in no doubt. It would increase taxes on breweries, liquor, transport, natural resource industries and corporations generally. All this would simply mean an increase in many prices, as business handed on its extra costs to the public, as far as possible.

The people of Ontario understood Mr. Mac- Donald's policy and rejected it. But it seems pretty clear that they did not understand the policies of the Conservative and Liberal Parties which promised all sorts of increased expenditure without saying how they would get the necessary revenue.

Premier Frost's policy, if it can be called such, was especially unrealistic. He promised to get $115 millions a year in extra money from his friend Mr. Diefenbaker, who can't find even enough money to pay the Federal Government's current bills. Mr. Frost was easily re-elected but he has not received the cheque from Ottawa and is unlikely to receive it for years to come, if ever.

Mr. Frost knew well enough that the money was unobtainable from the empty federal treasury but he maintained that impossible hope until the polls closed.

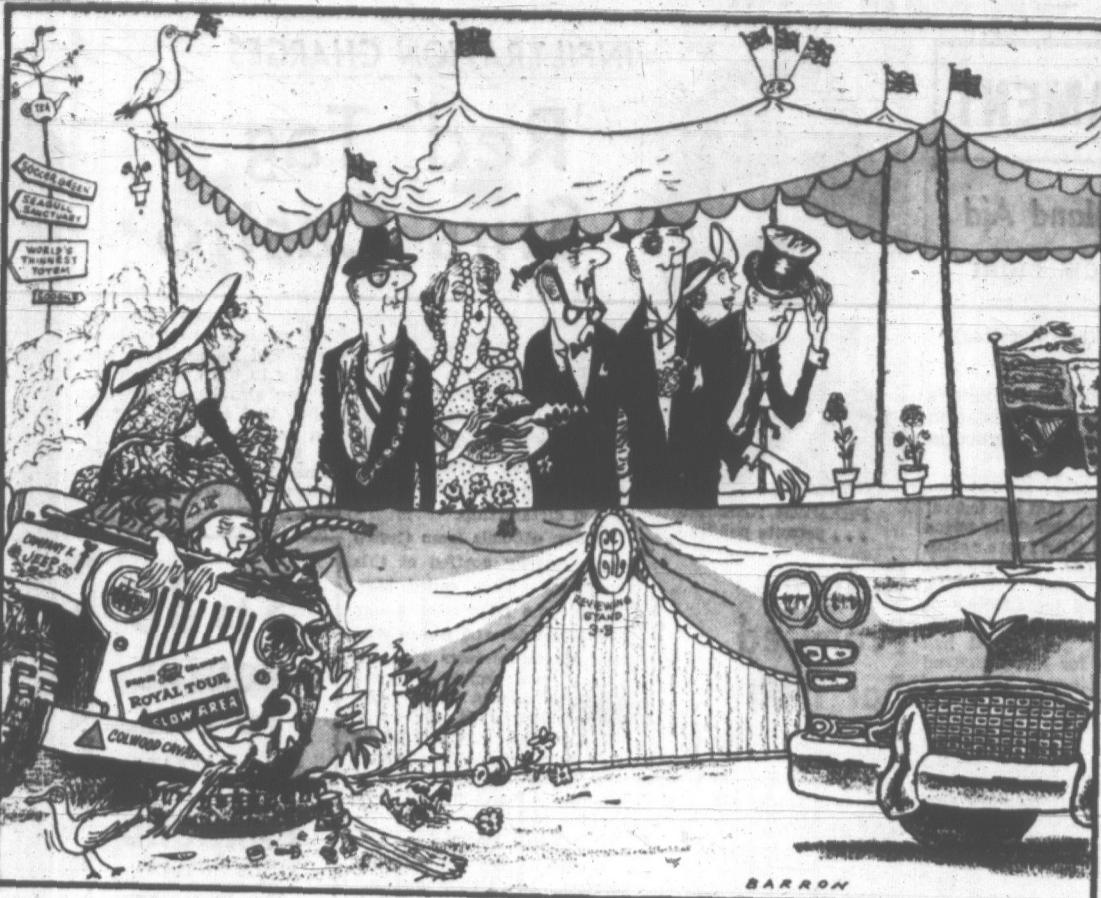

The voters didn't want Mr. Mac- Donald's higher taxes but secretly they may well have preferred his candor. And most likely they will get some of the higher taxes anyway from the Frost Government.

Pork With Your Beans

WHILE STATESMEN OF THE West flounder in agricultural surpluses and statesmen of Asia in mass hunger, The Calgary Albertan has hit on the first really hopeful solution of the farm problem.

"Canada," it says, "is loaded down with pork. If they'd put a visible piece of it in every tin of pork and beans the surplus would disappear immediately."

That idea seems wild and heretical at first glance but it is worth considering. Perhaps we could eat our surplus pork instead of solemnly buying it from the farmers at one price and selling it abroad at a much lower price, the difference being paid by the taxpayers. With a statesmanlike slogan like "Pork With Your Beans" a political party might well sweep the country.

"... I'll say this ... for the army ... they said they'd get ... usherein time ... and they did ..."

ANIMALS AROUND US

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL

The Best of Our Fishes

IN THE EYES OF THE LAYMAN a conventional fish has a more or less streamlined body covered with silvery scales and propelled by two pairs of fins plus a back fin and a tail. The eye is usually prominent and staring and the gill cover forms the side of the head. There are no spines in the fins, plates covering the body or other "fancy gadgets."

This is as good a description as any of the group of fishes to which the herring, trout, and salmon belong—a group showing very little specialization or originality in their structure and form. Although these fishes are "modern" compared to the sharks, rays, skates and sturgeons, they are really old and yet have remained simple in form and as such they can be regarded as "standard models."

Speed and Activity

The skeleton is no longer cartilage as in the earlier fishes, but bone which permits the development of a body capable of greater speed and activity. True ribs appear also for greater support and increased annoyance of the fish-eater! The body is encased in overlapping scales which provide protection, keep water out, and reduce friction. The side fins are so placed that they can be used for quick starts and stops and for short turns thus greatly increasing maneuverability. The streamlined body, with no projections except the stabilizing fins, permits an increase in cruising speed and in range. All in all, fish with these attributes are definitely of a superior type.

Four representatives of the herrings are found in local waters; herring, anchovy, pilchard and shad. The herring is by far the most common and in fact is possibly our most numerous fish. A single catch may consist of 12 million fish and 192,000 tons may be taken by fishermen in one season! Not only is this species valuable commercially but it is of prime importance as food for many other animals ranging from squids, fishes, birds, seals, porpoises to whales.

Millions In a Herd

Herring have a strong herding instinct. They always travel in schools which may number in the millions of individuals and they tend to form local populations which mingle only slightly where they overlap.

Anchovies are also schooling in habit and may exist in large numbers in certain years. They are largely used for the production of oil and meal; some are canned, pickled or made into paste.

For a number of years pilchards were exceedingly abundant along the West Coast of Vancouver Island and a fishing industry flourished. However, the population fluctuated greatly in size and eventually disappeared. There has now been no commercial fishery since 1947. The young stage is the so-called sardine of California; it, too, has been greatly depleted in recent years.

The shad is a species introduced from the Atlantic coast, first released in the Pacific between 1871 and 1880 in California. Specimens have been taken as far north as Alaska and small numbers are taken each year near the mouth of the Fraser River.

It is a bit unfortunate that our five species of Pacific salmon are called salmon. The original salmon, of course, is the Atlantic or European fish; our fish happen to look like the European species and so were given the same common name. Actually they differ in a number of respects, chiefly in their life history. Our fish, for example, all die after spawning while the Atlantic salmon may live to spawn several times. The name is so widely used now there is little chance of changing so people will continue to be confused far into the future.

To complicate the picture further it may be claimed that our steelhead should have been called a salmon because it is most like the European fish of that name. However it is technically a trout and includes two fresh-water varieties, the rainbow and the Kamloops. Our only other native trout is the cutthroat which is found both in fresh water and the sea. A third trout, the European brown, has been introduced on the coast but occurs in numbers only in the Cowichan system.

Char By Name

The so-called lake trout, eastern brook trout and Dolly Varden are more correctly called char but here again common usage ignores technicalities and the inaccurate names persist. Of these the brook trout is also an introduced species, found in many lakes and rivers of the central part of the Province and in Spectacle Lake and Cowichan River system on Vancouver Island.

It is interesting to note that of the more than 300 species of fishes found in British Columbia the most valuable ones, from the standpoint of both food and sport, belong to this relatively small group of unspecialized fishes. The exploited species, herring, salmon and trout, exist in rather large numbers and have great reproductive powers. They are able to "hold their own if given half a chance."

Wrong Title

AMONG OTHERS IN VICTORIA I have received from our City Hall an invitation to attend the Civic Reception in Beacon Hill Park, for "Her Royal Highness" the Queen—instead of Her Majesty. In this age of culture and education it is incredible that such an error could be made. In the Royal Family there are at least 30 Royal Highnesses, but only one Queen. How could such an error be made?

Alice Again

IT MAY BE JUST MY IMPRESSION, but there seems to be a kind of Alice in Wonderland atmosphere about the lumber strike. We know that the men, already very well paid, will never regain the losses they sustain in pay in this strike. We know that we have lost all but the very changeable American market as a result of the high prices of our lumber. This market could shut off in a moment if the U.S.A. decides, as it has done many times in the past.

We know that higher wages pour fuel on the fire of inflation, which is robbing people with the lowest incomes through the erosion of their savings, insurance, pension, and superannuation. We know that Russia is flourishing on the sale of lumber to our former customers and blood relatives in Britain.

We know that a local lumber company pathetically bleated, "Our sale of goods is not illegal," as if a trade union had the right to say that the sale of goods by a citizen of this country is legal or illegal. I thought our Government determined whether it was legal to buy or sell any particular type of goods, including lumber.

We, the consumers, have allowed the unions to get across the idea that anyone not supporting their outrageous demands, which will cost the consumer more money, is somehow not quite playing cricket. A picket line is sacred to union members only. Why should the general public support this idea and allow itself to be intimidated? A citizen has every right, and perhaps, the duty to pass a picket line where he feels the demand of a union is unjust. Even the lumber companies involved appear to have fallen for the idea that it is not quite nice to sell to citizens even though those citizens do not believe in the justice of the union's demands and will have to pay, in the final analysis, any increases granted.

The final irony is that the leaders of organized labour are at last becoming uneasily aware of the economic effect of their exorbitant and irresponsible demands, but are now the victim of their own propaganda and dare not communicate their claims to the rank and file. They have tigered by the tail. Shades of Lewis Carroll.

Ingratitude

There are two kinds of people in the world that are as different as day and night—the grateful and the ungrateful. The grateful people could be called the light of the world because they are thankful for the smallest favor and radiate peace and joy wherever they go. The ungrateful are never satisfied and take everything for granted. Such people wouldn't utter a word of praise or encouragement if heaven itself was created before their very eyes.

Today ungratefulness is a world-wide institution. Here in B.C. the woodworkers' strike is a good example.

Victoria.

These workers have been getting good wages and want more not because they are not getting enough but because they think their employers can pay more. This has been the attitude of labor unions for years, in spite of the fact that these employers have given most of the workers good wages over a long period of time.

TOM CLARK.

Over the weekend, I was approached by an out-of-work IWA man asking me if I had any odd jobs he might do.

He said to me: "I voted against the strike. I am not a company man, nor am I a union man. I am just a fellow with three children who was earning a good wage and now needs money to take care of my family."

I have a lot of sympathy for such chaps. I wonder if this type of voice is heard, and considered, before the union takes such drastic steps?

Legitimacy Bill

A week earlier, the Lords deleted, by 27 votes to 19, a clause of the Legitimacy Bill—a private member's bill—which would have legitimated a child if its parents subsequently married and even if either of the parents had been married to someone else at the time of the child's birth. Lord Conesford, who moved the deletion, and his supporters, including the Bishop of Exeter, argued that the clause undermined the institution of Christian marriage and morality.

When the Legitimacy Bill was before the Commons, there had been some objection to it on this ground, but a majority of members took the view that a child should not suffer for the illegitimate act of its parents. In the Lords the Lord Chancellor said the government had no corporate view but regarded this as essentially a matter for members' own consciences and moral views. He himself, he added, supported the clause.

WESTMINSTER SURVEY

Church and School

BOTH Houses of Parliament are concerned at present with problems of conscience and of religious faith, and although the current tendency among party managers is to try to keep discussion of such subjects as muted as possible, the existence of sharp differences of opinion cannot altogether be concealed.

In fact, some members of Parliament believe that the vitality of Parliament will be weakened if debates do not reflect, without necessarily weakening the authority of the Government or the discipline of the Opposition, divergences of opinion which separate members of the public.

Last week, the Commons gave a third reading to the Education Bill which proposes to raise the amount of money which the State may provide for church schools. The bill has been welcomed principally by the Roman Catholics and by members of the Church of England, and has been criticized principally by Free Churchmen. The leaders of the Conservative, Labor and Liberal parties have all agreed to prevent, if they can, the proposals in this bill from becoming issues of party controversy, and they have achieved a considerable measure of success. None of them has wanted to stir up the discord which followed Balfour's Education Act of 1

Hope for the Homeless

NEW YORK — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold has produced a plan for solution of one of the more tragic and potentially dangerous of the world's problems—the question of 1,000,000 Palestine refugees, victims of the Arab-Israeli war who, 11 years later, are still homeless.

So far there has been virtually no progress in attempts to re-settle these sullen and resentful people, an explosive element in an already explosive area. Now Mr. Hammarskjold has made a report whose reception by the Arab nations suggests that the deadlock may be yielding slightly.

Previously, the Arabs vehemently insisted that the only solution is for the Palestine refugees to be permitted to return to Israel. This time the Arabs have remained silent on Mr. Hammarskjold's suggestion for settlement in Arab lands and this is regarded as a significant silence, a possible shifting in the Arab attitude which might lead to a solution.

The Secretary-General says that resettlement in the Arab Lands would not necessarily mean giving up the refugees' claim to the right of ultimate repatriation. On the other hand he notes that Israel has offered conditional compensation for refugee landholders and there is little doubt that he believes hopes for any large-scale repatriation are unrealistic.

It is also noted that self-support programs in the refugee camps are winning acceptance. Many refugees in the past refused to participate in job programs because they felt that this would mean, in effect, giving up their claim to repatriation.

The document, which is expected to be one of the key reports to be considered at this fall's General Assembly, "strongly and unreservedly" recommends indefinite continuation of UN aid to the refugees. On the other hand, he suggests that the Arab Nations might provide certain services, in particular, education for refugees.

Mr. Hammarskjold emphasizes the economic aspect of the refugee problem and suggests that if a reasonable rate of development can be ensured then "the proper political setting would probably . . . be created."

LONDON LETTER

Burke

He says that the 1,000,000 refugees "should be regarded not as a liability, but more justly, as an asset for the future."

The re-integration of the Palestine refugees into productive life . . . is perfectly within reach, provided that the area can be developed through sufficient capital formation."

On the question of capital accumulation, he says that the Arab "have oil" states will enjoy a surplus of between $5.3 billion and $8.2 billion in the years 1960 to 1970. In the same period the "don't have oil" states will require substantial outside investment if they are to achieve increases in the pathetically low incomes of their people—less than $100 per year.

Mr. Hammarskjold suggests that a minimum of around a billion will be required and preferably something of the order of $3.4 billion. In addition, there is the problem of the 1,000,000 refugees. Experience has shown, he says, that it costs about $3,300 to provide a job for each worker, making a total of $1.7 billion for the entire resettlement. This brings the capital requirement of the area to $5.1 billion.

It is expected, however, that a significant part of this capital will come from oil production," suggests the secretary-general. This would be a significant change in Arab investment practice. Heretofore surplus capital has been invested outside the area, much of it in England.

He notes "important progress" in co-operation between the Arab States, especially economic co-operation, including the establishment of an Arab development fund. And he notes that the area, although still a low-income area, is making significant progress.

* * *

The rate of economic development of the area in recent years, and the fact of its still undeveloped natural resources, are not only in themselves encouraging signs, but should lead us to regard the refugee population not as a liability but as an asset for the future," he says. "The more rapidly the refugees could be productively employed, the greater the contribution they could make to the national income."

The answer is still a long way off, of course, but at least the outline of a solution can be seen and the attitude of the Arabs is hopeful. Simple common sense may be winning out. In a world in which common sense is uncommonly rare, this is cheerful news.

Bees and B's

LONDON—There's a very good reason for the expression "to make a beeline" for something. It seems that a bee will always take the shortest route when it goes from A to B. Unless, of course, it is tickle and then it goes from bee to bee.

This directness of bees is going to help a Mrs. G. Russell, of Wolverhampton, to surmount a problem, she hopes.

Next week she is throwing open the grounds of her home for a garden counter-marching by a military band. But Mrs. Russell has a hobby of keeping bees and the bandsmen's manoeuvres will take them past the hives.

A shocking situation if they got bees in their bearskins and had to retreat in disorder in the middle of Colonel Bogey. Most undignified.

So . . . she has rigged up a sheet hanging from a line between their hives and the flowers. Coming back with the honey, they have to fly over this and she's moving it up a couple of inches each day. By the time the garden fete is about to take place the bees will be in the habit of gaining altitude and dive-bombing their hives.

Reyburn

On the day, she'll take the sheet away and, all being well, the conditioned bees will take the high route well above the bandsmen's heads.

* * *

Other bee news: Down in Somerset a farmer has used bees (or rather, empty beehives) to solve his problem. Pestered by campers invading his fields, he has dotted some hives strategically around his property. No bees in them, of course, but no trespassers now either.

Current quip is that England's seaside peep-show machines, traditionally labelled What the Butler Saw, are now called What Billy Graham Saw.

At the beginning of August the English are to have something they've been without all these long years—Musak. This means either that they've been behind the times or they've been lucky up until now, depending how you feel about it.

But it won't be called Musak. The English version will be Planned Music and among the first to install it are the offices of the Encyclopedia Britannica. There's a good reason for this. There has always been a close tieup between the Encyclopedia Britannica and Musak. Senator Benton, the big advertising man, was boss of both firms in the U.S.

ST. STEPHEN'S PLANS
To Build New Church

QUALICUM BEACH — By unanimous vote of a congregational meeting of St. Stephen's United Church here, it was decided to rescind the motion calling for alteration and enlargement of the existing church, and to move the structure and build a new church on the site.

The old church will be used for a Sunday school hall.

Plans for the new church were presented by architect T. B. McArravy of Nanaimo. The present church was built in 1943.

'HOFFA WILL NEVER CLEAN UP CORRUPTION'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Senator John McClellan of Arkansas said today it is crystal clear that James R. Hoffa never will clean up corruption in his Teamsters Union.

The Senate rackets committee McClellan heads Tuesday wound up a 2½-year investigation of Teamster President Hoffa and scandals in the union.

As a parting shot, committee counsel Robert S. Kennedy denounced Hoffa to his face as a taker of payoffs from employers.

"I'll tell you that's a lie," Hoffa flared back.

Kennedy said he has no plan for further questioning of Hoffa.

Screaming Hoffa Denies Link With Communism

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, almost jumping with rage, shouted Tuesday that he has no connection with communism.

The labor leader, who has shrugged off statements that his Teamsters' Union is a haven for crooks and mobsters, blasted off at a hearing of the Senate rackets committee.

He acknowledged, however, that he is working on a pact between the Teamsters and Harry Bridges' West Coast Longshoremen, who were bounced from the CIO in 1950 on charges of Communist domination.

Hoffa said the pact—that's what he called it—would be an agreement on jurisdictional and organizational problems growing out of automation and other mechanization of industry.

FORM GIANT UNION?

Bartley C. Crum, a New York lawyer who has had dealings with all three men concerned, testified Monday that Hoffa was working with Bridges and Louis Goldblatt of the Longshoremen to form a single, giant transport union.

Such a merged operation could have far-reaching effects on all transportation in the country. The two unions are already powerful, individually.

The International Brotherhood of Teamsters has more than 1,300,000 members; the West Coast Longshoremen about 62,000.

What set Hoffa off on the Communism angle was a remark by committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy during a discussion of whether Bridges and Goldblatt are Communists.

HOFFA A COMMUNIST?

"There is no question about Goldblatt," Kennedy said, "but there may be a question about Hoffa."

"Don't you say that!" Hoffa almost screamed. "Don't use this committee for a sounding board. Nobody's going to say that about Hoffa . . . don't put me in their class."

Kennedy said he had misspoken, that what he meant to say was "There is no question about Goldblatt, but there may be a question about Bridges."

JOINS BROWNIES

Princess Pledges To Do Dishes

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, second in line to the British throne, took a pledge Tuesday to do what ma'm tells her.

Furthermore, she promised to lend a hand with wiping the Buckingham Palace dishes whenever the need arises.

The pledges came with official enrolment of the eight-year-old daughter of the Queen as a member of the Buckingham Palace Brownie pack, whose last previous royal recruit was Princess Margaret.

The enrolment took place by the summer house in the palace gardens, with Anne neat in her Brownie uniform of brown dress, brown beret, brown belt, brown shoes and white bobby socks.

Her fellow members in the pack are a dozen ordinary children from the palace neighborhood. The palace keeps a damper on publicity about them because the pack is intended to give Anne a breath of normal life out of the royal spotlight.

The Princess Royal, Anne's great aunt and president of the English Girl Scouts, was presiding officer at the enrolment.

Anne was brought before her aunt and lisp'd the Brownie law:

"A Brownie gives in to her elders, but never gives in to herself."

Next she repeated the Brownie promise:

"I promise to do my best; to do my duty to God and the Queen; to help other people every day, especially those at home."

She had to assure her elders that she can wash dishes, set a table, light a fire, and tie a reef knot behind her back.

$2,000 Bail Set for Youth In Burglary

Bail of $2,000 was set in Saanich police court Tuesday for 17-year-old Stanley John Bullivant, 3521 Douglas, when he was committed for trial in connection with a $2,000 burglary at Parkdale Service Garage June 23.

The commitment by Magistrate William Oster followed two sittings of a preliminary hearing which ran to nearly 4½ hours including a trial-within-a-trial.

The latter concerned three alleged statements held by police and resulted in the admission of one in Crown evidence.

Counsel Joseph McKenna argued the statements were not proved voluntary and the charge should therefore be dismissed.

Bullivant was charged following discovery of a large quantity of mechanic's tools and garage equipment in a stolen station wagon later on the day of the burglary.

The accused elected trial by judge and jury.

City RCAF Officers Win Promotion

Three members of Victoria's 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron have been promoted: Flight Lieutenant, Squadron Leader D. B. Ascott announced Tuesday.

They are: P. J. O'Neill, 263 Crescent Road; F. R. Morris, 54 Wellington Avenue; and F. T. H. White, 731 Newbury Street.

Flight Lieutenant O'Neill has been regular force support officer for the local squadron for the past year. He is now at RCAF Station, Cold Lake, Alta., preparing for arrival of the local squadron for two weeks' summer training.

Flight Lieutenant Morris who is employed in civilian life by the air division of the B.C. Land Service, is radar training officer with 2455 Squadron.

Flight Lieutenant White, a fighter controller with the local unit, is a member of Victoria Public Library staff.

Holy Island off England's Northumbrian coast may be reached by car across a three-mile sandbar at low tide.

RULES WAIVED

Philip Over Trout Limit - New Champ?

By PETE LOUDON
(Times Staff Correspondent)

VANCOUVER — Prince Philip exceeded the legal limit when taking trout from Lake Pennask, it was indicated by royal press secretary Esmond Butler Tuesday.

He said during the weekend holiday, Saturday to Tuesday morning, the prince caught 60 to 70 trout and the Queen 20 or 25. Legal limit is 12 to a fisherman each day. However, all rules were waived for the Royal visitors.

The Royal couple gained a greater degree of privacy at Pennask than at any other time on their tour. Monday Prince Philip took charge of a boat and a 15-horsepower outboard and disappeared with the Queen for four and a half hours. They eluded even the RCMP guard.

They dressed for the outing in sports clothes, the Queen in blue slacks, a red wool sweater and saddle shoes, and the prince in a wool sweater, red and black check shirt and grey trousers.

Presentation Flies Used

The prince used some of the trout flies presented to him earlier at Vernon and landed his best catches with flies named Golden Cock, Black Gnat and Sedge. The holiday pair wore the same outfit riding, not having brought riding habits. They did no swimming, because the lake temperature remained at a cool 55.

At the lodge, the Royal couple got up each day at 7:45 a.m. taking breakfast on the veranda, and the menu usually was trout. Lunch and dinner were taken at the long table in the dining room with members of the tour staff. There was little discussion of the tour, they talked about the day's happenings, the wild life and mosquitoes.

In the evening, the Prince relaxed with gin and tonic or beer while the Queen drank orange juice. They called all staff members by their first names and the staff referred to the Queen as ma'am. Prince Philip at all times referred to his wife as "the Queen."

Shook Hands With Pilots

On their return to Kamloops airport the Queen and Prince Philip shook hands with their two pilots, PWA officials and the mechanics and aircrew. Later they received Justice Minister E. Davey Fulton's three children, Mary 10, Patricia 8, and Sydney 4.

Also presented was Sam Woods, about 60, who once was chauffeur to the late King George VI, and now is retired at Kamloops. Mr. Woods carried a brown paper shopping

Prince, Queen Separated

At Spence's Bridge an hour later, distributing centre for mining and ranching areas in the nearby hills, the crowd was so thick the Prince was separated from the Queen as he was walking. As in most small centres, even though the stop was for only 10 minutes, the Royal couple seemed to find more time for chatting with Council approved grants of $25 to the Cowichan Girl Guides and to the Salvation Army.

Missing Island Boy Now Feared Drowned

A boy aged four missing since Thursday from a logging camp on Bute Inlet, northeast of Campbell River, is feared to have drowned.

The son of Eva Creek logging camp boat operator Robert Norman Jamieson, the child is believed to have slipped off a row of logs into deep water near his home.

Earlier it was thought the boy had been seized by a cougar but this theory was ruled out after a day-long search by RCMP with six dogs.

Jubilee St. To Be Made Wider, Safer

DUNCAN—One of Duncan's "most hazardous" streets will be made safer for pedestrians and motorists this summer.

Jubilee Street, running up a steep curving hill towards King's Daughters' Hospital, will be widened when a new sidewalk is installed.

City council has accepted the Cowichan Construction Co. bid of $3,887. A sidewalk and retaining wall will be built on the 20 per cent grade.

Tender Call For Alberni Work Delayed

POR ALBERNI—Tenders for construction of the Stamp Avenue revision, planned for more than two years, will not be called before September, Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said.

He made the statement after a visit by mayors of the Twin Cities, Loran Jordon and Jack Luckhurst, who pointed out wet weather would make the project more expensive in the fall.

Mr. Gagliardi said he would arrange with the finance department for funds to make it possible to call tenders in mid-August but that he thought it unlikely this could be done before September.

TWO-CAR CRASH ON HIGHWAY

10 Escape Injuries

DUNCAN — Two Victorians and eight children on a camping trip to Parksville narrowly missed serious injuries in a two-car collision one mile north of here Tuesday afternoon.

Passengers of Mrs. Peterson's car, Mrs. Wright and her son, Kim, were thrown against the windshield, but only suffered nose-bleeds. The other children suffered no injuries.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Peterson's car struck Teasdale's vehicle as he attempted to make a U-turn on the highway.

Mrs. Peterson and children returned to Victoria after the accident.

RUSSIAN ASKS PROOF OF GOD BY MIRACLE

LONDON (Reuters) — A Moscow radio commentator Tuesday asked why God does not perform "at least one" miracle to prove his existence. "All the miracles of religion either never occurred at all and their accounts are pure invention," Mikhail Krutik said, "or else they did occur but were not miracles but were brought about by natural causes."

He said a miracle would be especially appropriate now "when a very great part of humanity does not believe" in God.

"What sort of God is he, if he cannot prove his existence?" Krutik asked.

Water Show Proceeds for New School

Victoria North Kiwanis Club will build a new school for retarded children with profits from a Holiday Watercade to be held in the Memorial Arena July 23-28.

Cost of the school will be around $20,000. It will be built on the site of the present school for retarded children at 3575 West Saanich Road.

The present school, a converted dwelling, is overcrowded with 27 children enrolled.

Stars of the Holiday Watercade will be at Eaton's box office at 7:30 p.m. Friday to sell tickets and sign autographs.

On Saturday at 3 p.m. some of the girls in the show will take part in a fashion parade at the Hudson's Bay store.

Winnipeg is Canada's fourth largest city and has a population exceeding 350,000.

Wasps Kill Farmer

MOUNT TIRY, N.C. (AP) — A farmer stung several times on the head and face Tuesday by yellow jackets was dead on arrival at hospital here. Isaac Arlie Jones, 37, disturbed the nest of yellow jackets while plowing. The yellow jacket is a type of wasp.

Another notable achievement in 1883 was the creation by Joseph E. Seagram, master distiller, of the distinguished Canadian Rye Whisky. Seagram's "83" Generations of Canadians since 1883 have enjoyed the distinctive flavour and bouquet of this fine whisky.

'UNTAPPED' COMMITTEE TOLD

Rich Gas, Oil Reserves

British Columbia has "extremely large" untapped reserves of gas and oil; Dr. George S. Hume, former chief federal government geologist, told a provincial government commission at the Legislative Buildings Tuesday.

Dr. Hume, who now operates as a consultant in Calgary, said reserves of natural gas in B.C. may total 75,000,000,000 cubic feet and reserves of oil may total 12,500,000,000 barrels. The government commission, set up under the newly-formed department of commercial transport, is hearing applications for permission to build an oil pipeline from the Natural gas fields in north-eastern B.C.

Three other companies have filed applications.

Weary, Unarmed Killer Suspect Found on Farm

By AL MARKLE

BASHAW, Alta. (CP)—Alberta's greatest manhunt came to a sudden, anti-climactic end Tuesday afternoon.

It ended when Robert Raymond Cook, 22, was recaptured near here four tense days after his escape from Ponoka Mental Hospital last Friday night.

Exhausted and unarmed, the young suspected murderer walked out from behind a barn to give himself up and end the search that had involved as many as 200 troops and police using planes, jeeps and tracking dogs.

Cook was being held for a month's observation in the hospital after his father, stepmother and five step-brothers and step-sisters were found bludgeoned to death last June 28.

Still Wearing Hospital Pyjamas

While Dufva talked to police, Cook walked into the open from behind a nearby barn. He carried no weapon—contrary to reports—and appeared extremely tired.

The arresting constables did not draw their weapons.

The stocky, suspected slayer still wore the pyjamas he had on when he broke through a hospital room window Friday night. Trousers covered his pyjama bottoms. He had no top, but wore a dark jacket.

Cook was brought immediately into Bashaw, but it wasn't until 6:30 p.m., two hours and 15 minutes after capture, that he was whisked into an RCMP car and taken to Edmonton for detention in a maximum security cell.

Police said that after Cook's escape from Ponoka he stole a car and drove to Nevis, 20 miles southeast, where pursued by a police cruiser—he overshot a curve and wrecked the car.

When the dust from the accident had settled the fugitive was nowhere in sight.

Apparently he fought his way through five miles of thick brush to Alix, northwest of Nevis, where he stole another, a 1957 luxury model built for speed. Search officials said it was the finding of this car, with gas enough left for 300 miles, which centred the search in the Bashaw area.

REVENGE FEARED

Police believed Cook's greatest desire was to get to Stettler, 25 miles southeast of this town, to "get" certain people.

One of the people, police believed, was Magistrate Fred Biggs, the man who had committed him to the mental hospital. A guard was placed around Mr. Biggs' home but withdrawn at his request.

The brutal deaths of Cook's family came only six days after he had been released from Prince Albert penitentiary after serving a three-year term for car theft.

Army, air force and RCMP combined during the peak of the search to provide the greatest manhunt network in Alberta's history.

The 200 men involved carried enough arms to start—or win—a war.

Police carried service revolvers, heavier-calibre revolvers and telescope-sighted rifles. The soldiers from the provost corp. in Wainwright carried sten-guns and wore .45-calibre automatics strapped to their hips. One jeep in the 20-vehicle army convoy was devoted entirely to carrying ammunition.

MOUNTIES SLIP

Jack Will Feel 'At Home' Now

By The Associated Press

A stringbean second baseman who's had a tough time finding a home in the Pacific Coast League gave Sacramento Solons the loop lead on a silver platter Tuesday night.

Jack Dittmer, long and lanky at 6-1 and 175 pounds, displayed strength of old as he poled out three homers and a single to bat the Solons to a 10-8 conquest of the San Diego Padres. He drove in seven runs.

The Sacramento victory, coupled with Vancouver's 4-0 loss to the Spokane Indians, gave the Solons a one-game lead over the second-place Mounties.

Portland Beavers tamed the Seattle Rainiers 4-2 and the Salt Lake City Bees drubbed the Phoenix Giants 9-5.

MEDIOCRE CLIP

Dittmer, who hit .315 with Phoenix last year, was acquired by the Solons from Seattle a few weeks ago. In a first-half slump, Dittmer was hitting at a mediocre .247 clip through Sunday's games.

But he was hot Tuesday night. He whacked out a two-run homer in the first frame, a solo homer in the sixth and a three-runner in the seventh. He singled home another run in the eighth, Billy Hunter, Al Jones and Mitch June got four runs for the Padres.

The Indians got their first run in the fourth on Tony Roig's triple and Freddie Hatfield's single. In the eighth, Hatfield doubled in one run and then trotted in himself as Chuck Essegian thumped a home run. Chuck Churn, another Seattle castoff, won his seventh game in nine decisions with a seven-hitter.

PERFECT NIGHT

The third-place Beavers halted Seattle's victory skein at four games. George Freese had a perfect, two-for-two night at the plate for Portland, driving in one run and scoring two himself with a single and a double. Duane Pilette limited the Rainiers to five hits, including Hal Bevan's solo homer in the seventh frame.

Alex Passes, But Sue Wins First Match

CHICAGO (CP) — Alex Olmedo of Peru, the Wimbledon men's singles champion, arrived by plane from Europe Tuesday but passed up playing in the United States clay courts tennis tournament for 24 hours.

Olmedo informed officials he had to take care of other matters, and could not play in the first round. Today he probably will have to play three singles matches.

Most of the men and women seeds advanced. R. Dennis Ralston, a California who recently won the U.S. junior hard court title, rallied to defeat seventh-seeded Donald Dell, Bethesda, Md., 68-63, 64.

Among the women, Susan Butt of Victoria defeated Marilyn Montgomery of San Antonio, Tex., 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, while Lorraine Williams of Chicago won by default from Lesley Ann Sparling of Toronto.

GRAND-SLAM CHAMP

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs established a grand-slam seasonal record when he hit five homers with the bases loaded in 1955.

Canadian Scout Scorns Shorts

COBALT, Ont. (CP)—Since the days of the late Lord Baden-Powell few Scouts worth their badges have failed to parade dressed in shorts, but the tradition doesn't impress at least one Canadian.

Queen's Scout Robert Keekila, 20, said in an interview that regulations instituted by the movement's founder, Lord Baden Powell, in South Africa during the Boer War are in need of a change.

"Scout laws created in the horse and buggy days don't always fit into today's rocket age," he said.

The requisite of short pants on parade cuts no ice with Canadian boys and their Scout leaders as a whole, and could even be a factor preventing more young people from being associated with the movement, he claimed.

"Shorts are out of style and unsuitable for Canada's cold climate or summer bushland," said Robert. "In Canada, where youngsters wear long pants sometimes before they are weaned, it is an unpopular step to force them into shorts in the Scout movement."

AIRMEN BANNED

LONDON (Reuters)—United States airmen today were reported to have been ordered to stay away for a month from a camp where members of the Women's Royal Air Force are housed. The reports said the ban followed U.S. Independence Day incidents in which American servicemen attempted to enter a block housing the British air women.

94 CONVICTS SURRENDER AFTER 32-HOUR REVOLT

PETROS, Tenn. (AP)—Ninety-four hungry convicts, dejected and unshaven, gave up their 32-hour rebellion Tuesday and surrendered meekly to their guards at Brushy Mountain State Prison.

The surrender came a few hours after the convicts sent out word from their hideaway in a prison coal mine that they planned "to tear out or tear down" the place unless their demands were met.

They had requested a series of changes at the prison, including more pay for coal they mined, better food, revised methods for assigning prison jobs, more use of recreational facilities, a fulltime doctor, a prison chaplain and changes in handling censored mail.

Neither of the three mine foremen they seized Monday as hostages was hurt.

Club Backs Down On Negro Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—The governors of the fashionable West Side Tennis Club say they would give "courteous and prompt attention" to a membership application by Dr. Ralph J. Bunche and his 15-year-old son, Ralph Jr.

The governors have accepted the resignation of the club president, who told Bunche that he and his son were not eligible for membership because they are Negroes.

A statement by the governors Tuesday also said "it is the policy of the club to consider and accept members without regard to race, creed or color."

NO HURRY TO APPLY

Bunche, a winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, said Tuesday night that there seemed to be no immediate likelihood that he or his son would apply for membership.

Bunche, United Nations under-secretary for special political affairs, announced recently that he had been barred from the club, in the Forest Hills section of Queens.

He said he had been told by club president Wilfred Burglund, when he inquired about membership for his son, that the club did not accept Negroes or Jews. Bunche's announcement set up a storm of protest.

DAVIS CUP PLAY

Several senators and city officials announced they would request that the Davis Cup matches scheduled at the club next month, and the U.S. championships, due to be held there in September, be held elsewhere.

The statement by the club governors said the club now has members of "oriental and other ancestry and there is a representation of the Jewish faith among the membership."

"To the best of our knowledge," the directors said, "no Negro has ever applied for membership."

Restraint Can Beat Inflation'

There Must Be Will,
Say Senate Probers

OTTAWA (CP) — Inflation is neither inevitable nor uncontrollable, the Senate finance committee declared Tuesday.

"Tools to contain inflation are available," it said in a report tabled in the Senate. Government authorities and the public should have "the will and determination" to use those tools whenever necessary.

The tools it specified: Restraint in expansion of the money supply, restraint in the growth of government spending, and avoidance of inflationary government deficits.

Price stability should not and need not be sacrificed for the goals of economic growth and high employment, the committee said. "Reasonable stability of prices is entirely compatible with, and essential to, the attainment" of those other goals.

NO SPECIFIC CRITICISMS

The report, unanimously adopted by the committee, made no specific criticisms of present or past governments for the inflation which has cut the dollar's purchasing power by 40 per cent since 1946.

At a press conference afterwards professor John J. Deutsch, the committee's economic adviser, who helped draft its report, said the six-week committee study has made "a contribution to public understanding of this problem, one of the great problems of our civilization".

The committee chairman, Senator Clarence Emerson (PC, New Brunswick), said "we've got to sell the people and tell the people that inflation is not alarming at this time."

UNANIMOUS AGREEMENT

The committee report said there was "virtually unanimous agreement" among the 45 witnesses who appeared—spokesmen for all major sectors of the economy—that there is no actual inflation going on at present.

Industrial capacity wasn't being fully used, the federal government's deficit position has improved since the last budget and the budget deficit was likely to be overcome in the relatively near future.

But there was a widespread fear of inflation" — shown in a "marked reluctance" of the public to buy bonds — which could in itself bring about the inflation that was feared.

"It is a matter of vital concern that this inflation psychology be overcome and that confidence in the future value of money be made secure.

NEED CLEAR PURPOSE

However, this task cannot be accomplished by some legerdemain or empty exhortation. There must be, not only a clear statement of purpose, but above all there must be a positive demonstration by the authorities in day-to-day policies that inflationary actions will be avoided.

This means the exercise, when necessary, of the required restraint in monetary and credit policies. It means restraint in the growth of government expenditures and the avoidance of deficits, especially when these are inflationary in their effects."

But the committee said there must also be restraint in the pressure which can be exerted by labor, business and other groups.

Professor Deutsch said the committee is not saying that wages should not rise. But wages and other costs should not rise faster than productivity.

Both labor and industry, he said, "should act in such a way that it is possible to follow a policy of reasonable price stability."

Police Find Only Dregs Of Wine Loot

Police recovered a few empty bottles of a $350 load of assorted wines, champagne and 26 dozen beer during investigation of a cafe burglary by a 17-year-old boy, June 26.

Alan Lane, 160 Gorge East, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to breaking, entering and theft at Northgate Cafe, 3240 Douglas, at 2 a.m.

Juvenile officer George Walton said the potables were taken from the cafe after a window was forced.

Lane was transferred from juvenile court to face the charge in police court, and was remanded to Tuesday for probation report and sentence.

Heat Causes Suicides

TAIPEI (AP) — Seven persons committed suicide in Formosa Monday. Authorities blamed a heat wave which shot temperatures up to 98 degrees during the last three days.

HUGE CROWD WATCHES FINAL DRESS REHEARSAL FOR MILITARY DISPLAY

Dress rehearsal for Friday's presentation by the Queen of her color to the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry drew some 3,000 Victorians to Beacon Hill Park today. In brilliant sunshine, mixed crowd watched entranced for more than an hour as ranks of stiff-backed men in khaki and two bands did their ceremonial stuff. Slow march by the PPCLI Corps of Drums, headed by

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Five-year-old David John Burdny was in slightly improved condition with severe head injury at Jubilee Hospital today.

The boy, son of city policeman John Burdny, 1248 Reynolds, was in collision with a car driven by Elsie K. Brown, 5417 West Saanich, in front of his home last Saturday afternoon.

Hospital medical superintendent Dr. Murray Anderson said the boy was now semi-conscious and had opened his eyes, but was still speechless.

Victoria Public Library will be closed from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday on account of the Royal visit.

Two new exhibitions opened at Victoria Art Gallery today. Vancouver artist George Kuhnen, who came from Czechoslovakia eight years ago, is showing prints and drawings of B.C. wildflowers and scenes of Vancouver's 1958 centennial celebrations.

The second exhibition is "The Winnipeg Show," a selection of 25 paintings from the annual survey of art in Canada sponsored by the women's committee of Winnipeg Art Gallery.

Education Minister Peterson is back at his government desk after a bout with a stomach ulcer. The 36-year-old minister suffered the attack several weeks ago and was ordered by his doctor to take treatment and a complete rest. He spent some time in hospital but did not undergo surgery.

Saanich lands and planning committee Tuesday turned down a suggestion of Coun. Stanley Murphy that it investigate the advantages and disadvantages of joining with Victoria in the construction of a new city hall.

But the committee authorized Coun. Murphy to explore the possibility of leasing office space in the proposed $1,800,000 city hall now being considered by City Council.

Two Victoria youngsters, Ronald and Douglas Muir, 1099 Jasmine, are among 70 junior forest wardens from the lower mainland, southern interior and Vancouver Island who will be attending the second summer training camp of the 1959 season, which opens at Lighthouse Park, West Vancouver, on Friday.

Sponsored by the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C., the camp features courses in conservation and wilderness survival, leading to the Warden's new Frontiersman Degree.

Quarterly general meeting of Victoria Unit No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada will be held in the auditorium, 1001 Wharf Street, Thursday at 8 p.m.

A Victoria man was charged in a police court today with carrying an offensive weapon, but the complainant ended up paying the penalty.

Charge against David H. Inglis was withdrawn at request of complainant George H. Burnett, who said he had additional information regarding the circumstances.

The weapon was a knife and was told.

"There has been a veritable rash of charges in the last week in which the complainants come up a day or so later to withdraw," Magistrate William Ostler remarked. "It's simply using the court . . . He charged Burnett $5 costs.

ASKING FOR SCHOOL SHIFTS

Trustee Scores Bid To Freeze Building

Provincial government pressure on school boards to virtually freeze school construction "is practically asking us to put children on a shift system," a Victoria school trustee said today.

Kenneth Leeming, vice-chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, indirectly blamed Premier Bennett's direct-debt reduction program for the freeze.

The government has issued two warnings to school boards to slow down construction because of high interest rates which affect the provincial budget because construction costs are shared and bonds guaranteed by the province.

Mr. Leeming said it was impossible to reconcile the government's request to cut down high-interest debt after it has deliberately plowed large sums into early repayment of low-interest bonds obtained years ago.

"My own feeling is that we should not be asked to restrict

ASK The TIMES

Q. Would you please give me information regarding Johnston Island. Is it still a British possession? Land area?

A. Johnston Island was disengaged by the British in 1807, and has been part of the U.S. defense system since 1834. There's a 1000 naval air station there, but part from that, nothing much. Population at last count was 60 persons. It's a coral atoll, comprising two small islands and a few miles in circumference, located in the Pacific Ocean about 700 miles southwest of Honolulu. For census purposes it forms part of Honolulu.

The other was included in an order-in-council authorizing a bylaw vote on a new school for Lillooet which recommended that "in view of the excessive current interest rates" boards consider deferring submission of building bylaws except in cases of "extreme urgency."

Impaired for Third Time Licenceless Driver Jailed

A man who never held a driver's licence was convicted for the third time on an alcohol-impaired driving charge and was sentenced in Saanich police court Tuesday to four months in jail.

Richard Charles, 353 East Sooke, pleaded guilty to a rarely-laid charge of drunken driving and a second charge of driving without a licence, for which he was given one month concurrent.

Charles was driver of a car

MOTOR FAILS Fishermen Rescued From Rocks

Two Victoria fishermen reported overdue late Tuesday after a day-long trip off Race Rocks were found safe by an RCMP search party near Church Island at 2 a.m.

Glen Lageri, 24, of 964 Ambassador, said the 13-foot boat carrying himself and Grant Hallberg, 23, of 1710 Kings, nearly swamped as six to eight-foot waves caught it and stopped its five horsepower outboard motor.

The boat drifted at the mercy of rough seas, half-filling the craft and sending it onto rocks at Church Island, where the men managed to drag it part way ashore and tried to empty the water.

"We were fishing near Beechey Head when all of a sudden the water got rough about 3 p.m.

WAVE TOO BIG

"There were about 8-foot rolls and we just caught one too big for the boat. It stopped our motor.

"The government knew that a rapid increase in school population — requiring new schools — was inevitable.

"Of course debt carrying high interest rates is to be avoided if possible but the government would have more money for assisting needed school construction had it not been so pressing in paying off the direct debt."

Board chairman Mrs. W. W. McGill said the government requests would not affect construction of a Gordon Head junior high school, last project left in the current school construction program.

"But, of course, the school board, as always, will exercise caution before spending any money on new projects," she added.

The provincial government has given two warnings to school boards in the past two weeks to slow down construction. One was contained in a department of education letter to board chairmen across the province.

The other was included in an order-in-council authorizing a bylaw vote on a new school for Lillooet which recommended that "in view of the excessive current interest rates" boards consider deferring submission of building bylaws except in cases of "extreme urgency."

The man who never held a driver's licence was convicted for the third time on an alcohol-impaired driving charge and was sentenced in Saanich police court Tuesday to four months in jail.

Richard Charles, 353 East Sooke, pleaded guilty to a rarely-laid charge of drunken driving and a second charge of driving without a licence, for which he was given one month concurrent.

Charles was driver of a car which was wrecked against a tree on the wrong side of West Saanich Road last Thursday afternoon, in which himself and a passenger were injured.

"It is hard to imagine a worse driving record," Magistrate William Ostler remarked after reading a probation report.

The most astonishing part about all these offences were that all without your having had a driver's licence."

PAIR ROW FOR 35 MILES AFTER FISHBOAT SINKS

James and Kenneth Quinn of Victoria rowed 35 miles in a dinghy after their 30-foot halibut boat, Soufflin, struck a log and sank in heavy seas off Cape Spencer, about 100 miles west of Juneau, Alaska, on the weekend.

They were picked up by an American fishboat about four or five miles from Cape Spencer.

"It was a long grueling row in hot sunshine," said James Quinn at his home at 975 Fairfield today. "I think we would have made the coast on our own, but we were grateful for the pick-up."

Their boat was insured for $27,000.

College Drive Date Known Soon

Details of a building fund campaign for $1,500,000 will be decided by Victoria College council "within a few days."

Dr. H. H. Hickman, college principal, today said the arrangements for the public subscription will "top off" this week's crucial "firm decision" by the council to develop the present college site as the main campus and the recently acquired 120 acres in Gordon Head as an "ancillary campus."

The council is expected to time the public campaign so that it is in full swing at the beginning of the year. Appointment of an advisory board, including members from a wide range of community organizations, and a fund-raising firm will be made later.

MATCHING GRANT

If the $1,500,000 is reached, Premier W. A. C. Bennett has promised to put up a matching grant of provincial funds.

The $3,000,000 would be used for construction of an 80,000-square-foot library and science building and a new heating plant on the present campus.

It is also hoped that the money could be stretched to provide a start for student residences — possibly converted army huts at the outset — on the Gordon Head property.

Single Dealer Now Handles Chrysler Line

Victoria Dodge-De Soto Ltd. today became the only dealer in Canada handling the full line of Chrysler automobiles.

President Ken McLennan announced the company has added Plymouth and Chrysler cars to its Dodge and De Soto dealership. The company also will sell the small Simca.

The deal was the third along Victoria's "automobile row" this month.

In adding Plymouth and Chrysler, Victoria Dodge-De Soto Ltd. is taking over the franchise formerly held by Olson Motors Ltd. The company dropped the Chrysler line Monday to become authorized Ford, Monarch and Edsel dealers.

The Ford dealership went on the block June 30 when National Motors Ltd. switched to imported foreign autos.

Victoria Dodge-De Soto Ltd. has been in business since 1946. It was formerly known as J. M. Wood Ltd. Mr. McLennan has been president of the company for the last two years.

A search was under way out of Seattle at noon for the 24-foot Canadian ketch Idler, missing on a cruise from Victoria to San Francisco.

With three persons aboard, the vessel was reported overdue after failing to arrive at Neah Bay, near the tip of Cape Flattery.

Seattle Coast Guard said they had a boat scouring the area and a plane checking harbor reaches and along the coast.

They had spotted no sign of the Idler at press time.

PILLAR POINT

The boat left Victoria at 9:40 a.m. Monday and has not been seen since 2 p.m. that day. She was then about 10 miles east of Pillar Point, on the Washington side of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Aboard are her owner, Ian Critchley, 28, his 24-year-old wife and a friend, Jim Stewart.

The ketch left Victoria harbor with three other boats, Galatea II was bound for a four-month global voyage, the cutter Herta for Acapulco and the 31-foot ketch Rainbird for the Bahamas.

Critchley is a former horticulturist who came to Canada from England four years ago. This is the trio's first trip in a small craft on the high seas.

"We're convinced this is going to be a long, hard, drawn-out bitter fight. The operators want everything unto themselves but we are not going to give in easily."

Mr. MacKenzie said he realized the strike could cause hardship among IWA members if prolonged, "but we shall take care of them."

"When you're in a fight you're prepared to sacrifice something when you're fighting for justice. We'll look after any IWA man who comes up against it."

The official said the last IWA strike in 1952 lasted six weeks and cost the union $300,000.

"On that basis our present strike fund of $1,800,000 would take us nine months, and we could get more from organized labor across the Dominion."

BOARD NOT WANTED

Mr. MacKenzie declined comment on a suggestion that the dispute be submitted to an impartial and independent fact-finding board possibly headed by a chief justice, as was suggested for the U.S. steel workers' strike.

And John Billing, president of Forest Industrial Relations, representing the 127 coast lumber operators affected by the walkout, said such a board "already exists in the conciliation board."

"A conciliation board is an independent fact-finding board," he said. "They don't have conciliation boards in the U.S."

The strike entered its ninth day today with no sign of resumption of talks and at least $25,000 down the provincial drain.

Mr. Billing said no new negotiations were in sight or planned.

PICKETS REMOVED

Meanwhile, B.C. Shipping Federation today served an injunction on IWA pickets at the Nanaimo assembly dock, and the pickets were quickly removed.

The injunction is good for 96 hours.

Tuesday three gangs of longshoremen and 10 dock workers were prevented from loading lumber aboard two ships, the Igor and the Cape Granville.

This morning, following removal of pickets, nine gangs of longshoremen went to work. They are loading lumber aboard two ships, the Igor and the Cape Granville.

Perpetual Bloom Begonias:
Bring Indoors for Winter

By PENNY SAVER

Did you know there is a variety of begonia that blooms outdoors all summer, then transplanted into the house, continues blooming in the winter? Sounds impossible but it's true. The little plants are of the "perpetual blooming" variety. With delicate little white and satiny red blossoms, they will keep right on flowering when you transplant them to boxes and bring them indoors in the fall.

Price is 15 cents each or three for 40 cents.

Now's the time to start little shrubs for evergreen areas of the garden. I've found well-started cypress shrubs for 25 cents. A soft muted green, these look lovely all year long.

Why not start a little ivy on a plain blank wall. I've found ivy plants for 25 cents.

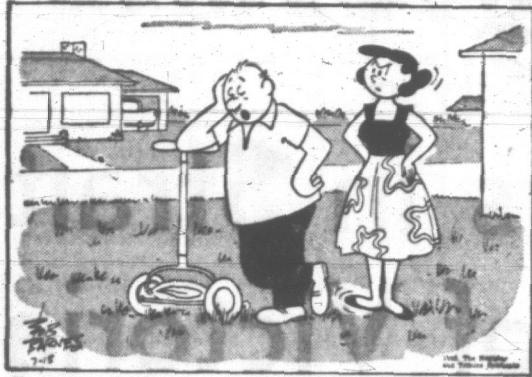

"Blue Marguerites"! One of the most beautiful cut flowers there is. You can buy flats of them right now at 45 cents for a sturdy little clump. They're a hardy perennial—will produce masses and masses of bloom year after year.

Summer time is marvellous outdoor fun time for all. But for dogs, it's also flea time. Cats are pestered by the little insects, makes them itchy and scratchy all day long. You can rid your pet of this pest with a handy little collar I've found. It kills fleas instantly on contact, will give 80 to 90 per cent freedom to your pet. Adjustable, light, cat collar costs 49 cents; dog collar is 59 cents.

In the food department a real find is a full pound of rindless, sliced bacon for only 45 cents, or two pounds for 85 cents. Penny mentioned this item last week with an incorrect quantity. Pardon, please!

WHY GROW OLD?

Happy Eating, Dieting
Can Go Hand In Hand

Happy eating and happy dieting can go hand in hand! When you are sticking to a short reducing diet for a quick loss of a few pounds naturally your calorie intake will have to be more drastically curtailed than when you plan to lose weight more gradually.

If you have only a few pounds to lose, the quickie diet is more satisfactory. It is also valuable as a starter on a longer slimming period because it is so encouraging.

In a way it is incorrect to call some foods "fattening" and some "reducing." All foods are fattening if you eat enough of them because they all have calories. No foods are reducing for the same reason. Nevertheless, on a drastically curtailed calorie count we do not have room for calorie-packed items. Fortunately the foods essential to health are comparatively low in calorie count. It is only the manner of cooking them and the additions to them which add the pounds.

Just the same when considering a long reducing trek it is important to take your psychological and emotional needs into consideration. If you feel that no meal is complete without a sweet at the end of it, have one occasionally. Take a smaller portion and have it on a day when the main course is low-calorie.

For your next snack party serve colorful and delicious tomato salad mold. It is conveniently prepared with condensed tomato soup. Outstanding is the subtly seasoned golden dressing made with hard cooked eggs. The canned sardines served with lemon wedges go especially well with the salad.

Perfect Fare for Informal Party

Summer is a wonderful time for parties, and you can conjure up all sorts of reasons to have one. Have a send-off snack party for friends leaving on vacation, or welcome them back with a casual get-together. Or, you might simply ask some friends over to enjoy the cool evening breezes on your patio.

Everyone likes an informal snack party both for the relaxation casual dress allows and for the type food served. Well chilled sardines and a zippy tomato mold served with a super dressing are tasty and they're easily prepared in advance. Add assorted cheeses and crackers, cold cuts, potato sticks and your favorite chilled sticks and a zippy crisp greens and golden dressing.

TOMATO SALAD MOLD

Two envelopes unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 2 cans condensed tomato soup, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/4 teaspoon tobacco, 1/4 cup lemon juice, chicory, or other crisp greens and golden dressing.

Soften gelatin in cold water; heat over hot water until gelatin is dissolved. Add soup, seasonings and lemon juice; mix until smooth. Pour into ring mold; chill until firm. Unmold on salad plate and garnish with chicory. Fill centre of ring with Golden Dressing. Six to eight servings.

GOLDEN DRESSING: Chop 4 hard cooked eggs. Add 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 3 thinly sliced green onions and seasoned salt to taste; chill.

Gladioli, Snapdragons in Church
For Comer-McQuarrie Wedding

Pink and white were the predominant tones at the marriage of Miss Maureen Elaine Comer and Charles Alan McQuarrie in St. Mark's Anglican Church recently. Stocks of pink gladioli white carnations and snapdragons decorated the church for the evening service conducted by Canon R. Willis.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Comer of Ambassador Avenue and her room is the son of Mrs. Margaret McQuarrie, West Saanich Road.

A ballerina-length dress of Chantilly lace was worn by the bride. Fitted bodice was enhanced by a sabrina neckline and the sleeves were lily point. A full skirt posed over hoops was appliqued with hand-clipped lace flowers. V-neckline at back of dress dipped into two floating hem.

Vegetables will stay crisp many days longer if placed wet in a polythene bag and stored in the refrigerator. If they have been kept too long and are wilting, simply refreshen them in a basin of cold water which contains a tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice.

ers. Her cap of nylon chiffon encrusted with iridescent sequins held a short illusion veil. She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom. Pink roses and white carnations were in the bouquet. She was given in marriage by her father.

Pink brocade sheath style dresses were worn by brides-matron, Mrs. B. Pendray and Miss Margaret Comer, brides-maid. Both carried bouquets of white carnations. Thomas Jarvie was best man and ushers were Ken Comer, Fred Comer and Bob Comer.

Pink roses decorated the three-tier cake cut by the newlyweds at a reception in the home of the bride's pa-length panels of nylon net applied with matching flowers. Ralph Comer, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast. A blue box-style suit with white-blue accessories was worn by the bride for her going-away outfit. The couple are honeymooning on the mainland.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Going to Meet the Queen? Be Natural, Don't Gush

By Elizabeth Forbes

If you've received an invitation to any one of the listed functions in Victoria at which Her Majesty the Queen and Prince Philip will make an appearance, you've no doubt been wondering about a number of things.

Uppermost, however, will be the thought: Suppose, by any chance, I meet the Queen or the Prince?

From there you'll go on to wonder: What will I do? What will I say?

Could be that at this point, two words will weigh rather heavily on your collective minds: Royal etiquette.

If so, do forget them! Despite all you have heard to the contrary, it can be said on good authority that there are really no ground rules for meeting royalty.

Admittedly, there are some myths, and they die hard. It's often been said that no member of the public should speak to the Queen unless the Queen speaks first.

This just isn't so, court officials say. Perhaps it was true in Victoria's time, but the feeling now is that it would place a considerable strain on the Queen if she had to think of an opening gambit every time.

Another story has it that nobody meeting the Queen should wear black. The truth is, officials say, that you can wear whatever you like.

The only risk about black is that it might be taken as indicating mourning.

Forms of address are straightforward. The Queen is "Your Majesty," the first time and Prince Philip "Your Royal Highness." If the conversation continues, "ma'm" and "sir" are appropriate.

For women, a curtsy is the thing. It is not obligatory, but it's customary. Men ordinarily bow on introduction.

Her Majesty doesn't mind if you shake her hand with or without gloves. Don't risk embarrassment by having them half on and half off!

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Cann, 3750 Winston Crescent, have announced the engagement of their only daughter, Marilyn Clair Cann, to Clifford Rae Wilkins, youngest son of Mrs. Q. V. Powliuk, Victoria. Wedding will take place at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, in Centennial United Church. Rev. Douglas B. Carr will officiate.

On Thursday evening there will be a dinner dance in Government House at which Her Majesty The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will be present. One hundred guests from Vancouver and Victoria have been invited. It is expected there will be square dancing in the new state ballroom as well as modern ballroom dancing.

Guests at Vancouver Dinner

Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, is in Vancouver this evening to attend a dinner given by the University of British Columbia at the Faculty Club at which Her Majesty the Queen and His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh will be present. Also attending the dinner from Victoria are Dr. Harry Hickman, head of Victoria College, and Mrs. Hickman.

Mrs. Ross will wear an imported dinner gown by Worth, in rich white satin, embroidered with diamante and pearls. Her jewels will be diamonds. Mrs. Hickman has chosen a white taffeta faille printed with deep pink roses and green leaves. She will wear pearls.

They Differ On Matter Of Skirts

LONDON (CP)—A couple of aristocratic Englishwomen, equally versed in fashion and literature, are at odds over skirts.

Nancy Mitford, baronet's daughter, best-selling author and expert on French culture, says the English have never learned to make a skirt.

Lady Pamela Berry, elegant wife of a Fleet Street editor, replies that this just isn't true. She volunteers to find Miss Mitford a good English skirt if she will attend London's "fashion week" starting July 21.

Canadian Couple Wed in Germany

A wedding of interest in Victoria military circles took place in the Church of St. John, Fort Prince of Wales, Germany, earlier this month, when Barbara Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sampson of Toronto, became the bride of Lieut. William James McAndrew, 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada and son of Lt.-Cmdr. J. W. McAndrew and Mrs. McAndrew of Victoria.

Best man was Lieut. Charles Belzile and ushers were Lieut. Paul Zmean and Lieut. Thomas Ball.

Reception was held in the officers' mess, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. Receiving guests, Mrs. Sampson wore a white bandeau, gloves and flower wig.

Following their honeymoon in Spain, the newlyweds will make their home in Hemer, Westphalia, Germany, until they return to Canada in the fall of 1960.

On Etiquette

In public view: My sister has an exquisite heirloom silver service that she keeps on display on a living room table in front of a large picture window so that it is plainly visible from the street. I feel that this is ostentatious and in bad taste and that she is endangering her possessions by leaving them out for public viewing. Is it proper to display such articles in the living room? If not, where should they be placed?

Louise Davis answers: Your sister is courting trouble. No insurance settlement could ever replace her heirloom silver set. I agree with you that it is bad taste to spotlight the silver by having it in the window. Surely she could rearrange her furniture so that the silver service could be in a less conspicuous place. If there is no dining room, it would be proper to have the set in the living room, but I hope it could be hidden from the eyes of strangers. Who has a better right than you to suggest this to your sister? If you get your ears pinned back, you can take it with very little risk of hard feelings. At least you will have tried.

DEAR ABBY . . .*Try a Little Horse Sense

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor must not have a brain in her head. She has two darling little girls under five years old and she lets them run around outside naked. Not a stitch of clothing on!

With so much in the papers lately about young boys and crazy men attacking children, I think there ought to be a law against mothers like her.

Please print this, Abby. You might save some little girl's life.

DEAR WORRIED: Your neighbor is many miles from me. But she is near enough to you so that you could speak to her about it. Perhaps the dangers you so wisely point out never occurred to her. Tell her in plain language. If she doesn't then clothe her children—notify the police.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who won't let her 14-year-old son go swimming alone after he has passed all swimming tests? I would appreciate your answer to this because it might help other boys with the same problem. Thank you.

DEAR DAVID: I think your mother doesn't believe in taking foolish chances. Even a boy who can swim like a fish is a sucker to go swimming alone. If a lone swimmer is ever seized with a cramp, he's a goner. Be wise—go with the guys!

DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old daughter says we are "square." Are we?

She belongs to a club. Most of the girls are her age. They're planning a week-end slumber party at a cottage owned by one of the girls' parents. It's quite a distance out of town. The chaperone? A 70-year-old caretaker who is deaf. He lives in a cottage about a block away.

My husband and I discussed it and decided she couldn't go. She stormed around for hours accusing us of trying to keep her a baby for ever, and ruining her socially. Are we wrong or not?

SQUARE PAIR

DEAR SQUARE: If there were more "square" parents like you there would be fewer girls going around in circles. Young girls should not attend slumber parties unless there is a chaperone within hearing distance who can hear.

P.S.—I don't think much of parents who can't stay home one night to chaperone their children's parties.

Mayor Supports Aged Men's Home

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said Wednesday night he will ask council next week to reverse its decision closing Mountain View Home for aged men.

Mayor Percy Scurrah and Ald. Elmer McEwen swung their support to Ald. Edgelow after inspecting the home but welfare committee chairman Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson maintained that closing was in the best interests of the aged men themselves.

"I just haven't the heart to close it down," said Mayor Scurrah. "Even if it costs Victoria taxpayers $6,000 or $7,000 a year, I haven't the heart to turn the old men out."

All but 21 of the men in the 50-bed institution have been

Power Pool Starts Soon

HALIFAX (CP)—An Atlantic Provinces power pool goes into operation in December.

The 138,000-volt grid, built at an estimated cost of $4,000,000, will join the reserves of the Nova Scotia Light and Power Company, the New Brunswick Light and Power Commission, the Nova Scotia Power Commission and Canada Electric Limited. The pool assures that in time of heavy demand or emergency one company can draw upon the reserves of the other.

The Atlantic Provinces economic council, which translated the 15-year-old idea into reality, and power company officials refer to the program as "a common-sense approach to a common problem."

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—One day about 11:30 a.m. Mitch Miller, the Bearded Balladeer, phoned young composer Robert Allen who, being a songwriter, was just getting up.

"I gotta have a song for a Studio One TV show," announced Miller, and described the type of song needed. "O.K.," yawned Allen. "I'll body loves a lover." Perry Como's theme, "You Are Never Far Away," Pat Boone's "If Dreams Come True," and also "Chances Are," "Come to Me," "Moments to Remember," "The Eyes of God" and "It's Not for Me to Say."

Allen shaved, dressed, had some coffee—and took a walk. A leisurely, pleasant walk. Then he strolled into Miller's office, sat down at a piano, and played "Song for a Summer Night," which sold 700,000 copies.

"I write walking," Allen explained the other day. "If I don't walk in the street, I walk at home. I'm a pacer."

Allen made clear, though, that he only writes the melodies walking. Lyrics he writes lying down.

"I stare at the ceiling like this," he said, in his office at Broadway and 50th St. And to show how, he lay down on the divan and stared at the ceiling.

And I swear it was just like you or I would stare at the ceiling, except when he does it, songs come out.

80% HITS

Allen has written songs that have sold 18 to 20 million records, in three years; "80 per cent of everything that's come out has been a hit," he admits—but he points out, "Not 80 per cent of everything I've written—80 per cent of what's come out."

"I really started to tear up songs a couple of years ago. It was a good idea," he says.

He didn't tear up "The Girl on the Beach" when he was with Dick Adler, and which the Four Lads made into a smash. His other ones included Doris Day's "Every-

KING SOLOMON'S MINES FOUND, AMATEUR CLAIMS

JERUSALEM, Israel, (UPI) — An amateur archaeologist and professional photographer claimed to have discovered the copper mines of King Solomon, the source of much of ancient Israel's great riches, according to legend.

Benno Rottenberg, who combines his profession of photography with his hobby of archaeology, said that he found traces of the mines over 50 square miles just west of the present-day copper mines near Eilath, on Israel's Red Sea coast.

Copper was mined in King Solomon's pits between the eleventh and seventh centuries B.C., Rottenberg said.

The biblical King Solomon, the son of David, is believed to have reigned from about 974 to about 937 B.C., or roughly halfway through this period.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The younger who has the first question answered each day receives a book and a set of prizes. The older who has the second question answered each day receives a Canadian edition of the second question and a Hammond Alka or Giclee.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to David Book, age 13, of St. Catharines, Ont., for his question:

Do They Mine Aluminum?

Silver-white aluminum is never found in pure form though it is the most plentiful metal in the earth's crust. It always occurs in combination with other elements. There are traces of it in most rocks and in all clays but only one ore is rich enough in aluminum to make mining worth while. This ore is bauxite—pronounced boox-ite. It is a compound of aluminum, oxygen and water mixed with impurities.

The mining of bauxite is not a hard job for it usually occurs near the surface of the earth. It comes in various tints and may be hard rock or soft clay. Mills near the mine crush the ore and dry out its moisture. Then the ore is sent to plants where the really tough job of separating the pure aluminum metal is done. This work is done in several stages and it requires several chemicals and tremendous electrical power.

In the first stage particles of iron and other impurities are removed from the bauxite ore. One method is to throw powdered ore into a bath containing hot caustic soda. This chemical bath causes the aluminum to combine with the sodium, forming sodium aluminate. It separates from the impurities which are filtered off as red mud.

The liquid sodium aluminate is then poured into tall tanks to cool and settle. Crystals begin to form, but they are far from being pure aluminum. The crystals are aluminum hydroxide, a compound of aluminum, water and oxygen. The water is driven off when the crystals are heated white hot.

What remains is aluminum oxide, a compound of aluminum and oxygen.

The job of removing the oxygen from aluminum oxide is done by electrolysis. A powerful electric current is made to leap through a bath of chemicals. The cell in which this takes place is a steel box lined with blocks of carbon.

The current is led into the bath from above by six carbon plates. These plates are raised and lowered into the liquid by block and tackle.

POLICE GUIDE ISSUED

ROYAL TOUR TRAFFIC RULES

Deputy police chief Harry Mercer has issued the following guide for auto traffic and parking during the 42-hour visit of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh:

On Thursday, from 3 p.m. should get to the dock as early as possible.

All traffic must keep off the royal tour routes.

On Friday the no-parking restriction goes on the Beacon Hill waterfront at 7 a.m., bounded by Dallas from Cook to Douglas; Douglas from Simcoe to Dallas; Battery from Douglas to Padden; Padden from Battery to Douglas, and Olympia from Battery to Douglas.

At 4:30 p.m. the Legislative Buildings area, bounded by Humboldt, Douglas, Superior, Oswego and the Inner Harbor, will be closed to traffic.

This is to accommodate the tri-service parade and march-past.

Motorists who wish to leave the city via Washington State Ferry at the CPR dock at 5 will be closed to traffic.

Traffic will be closed off within Cook, Dallas, Government, Douglas and roads leading from Beacon Hill Park to Dallas and Douglas, at 9:30 a.m.

Empress Hotel Area To Be Closed

Just prior to the arrival of the royal party at the Empress Hotel, at 1:10 p.m., the hotel area will be closed off. This will be repeated just before the departure for Clover Point, at 2:30 p.m.

The east side of Government, between Belleville and Government, will be closed to parking at 11 a.m.

There will be no parking after 12 noon in the Beacon Hill-Clover Point area. These streets are Heywood and Park Boulevard to Dallas through Beacon Hill Park; Dallas from Cook to Clover Point; Moss from Dallas to Rockland, and Rockland from Moss to Government House.

Traffic will be stopped at 12:30 p.m. in the area bounded by Cook, May, Moss, Memorial Crescent and Dallas.

During the entire visit, there will be limited parking on Rockland in the Government House area. "No parking" signs will be placed and must be observed at all times.

Cars carrying children and VIP's to Clover Point will be allowed to go to their designated areas provided they bear necessary windshield stickers.

... WILLIAM HEAD

privileges taken away. Mr. Grant (John Grant, chief supervisor) gave us a lecture, but that's all.

No, they weren't angry at the six men. Rather, they directed their hostility toward a nebulous "them" — apparently the Ottawa penal officials who have the last say in any policy decisions affecting William Head and its parent B.C. Penitentiary.

Most inmates spoken to

Prisoners Approve of Warden

At the local level, inmates found no fault with Mr. Grant's administration.

"He's a good egg," said one man. Another described him as a "top-notcher." A third used the term "real solid guy" while several others said their chief supervisor would do "a lot more for us if his hands weren't tied by those guys in Ottawa."

Boredom was the principal of the minority reasons advanced by inmates for the six escapes in the last two months. Four and, in part five, men thought the six would not have broken out had they been given "something constructive to do during the day" and more interesting amusements

Guards explained they could not be in two places at the same time. They also pointed out there were many hobbies available, including leatherwork, stone masonry, piano, woodworking, cards and night television. One guard said the inmates enjoyed more and better privileges than he ever knew.

One Visitor Allowed Per Month

Meanwhile, other prisoners said they were sometimes bored because visits "from the outside" were restricted to one a month and they were not permitted to receive more than four letters a month.

But these complaints were few and offset by prisoners busy with Dale Carnegie self-improvement courses and interest in radio and television construction.

Generally most inmates admitted to a full day, although many said they would like to see work programs instituted to teach them trades aimed at equipping them for normal civilian life.

On parole, many inmates felt keenly that they had been "double-crossed" by penal offi-

Figured Nothing to Lose

Inmates said also that the most recent escapee, Karl Kurbis, escaped because he knew he faced deportation to Poland when he completed his three-year term for forgery, and similarly "figured he couldn't lose nothing."

(Kurbis was recaptured Saturday and on Monday given another two years for escaping legal custody. Sykes was sentenced to another year, to be served concurrently with his original 20-year "life" term.)

His former fellow convicts said Kurbis, too, had been told (by an unspecified "them") that he would qualify for parole, then allegedly "dumped."

"But Kurbis would have broken out anyhow," said one

Did They Want To Be Caught?

Few inmates put much credence in several prisoners' suggestions that the six, or some of them, broke out in order to be caught and sent back for longer terms to avoid the prospect of having to start life again as an ex-convict in competition with other men on the outside.

But they agreed almost to a man that lack of association with women motivated prison escapes, "especially where men as young and hot-blooded as these six are concerned."

The inmates gave as much

If He's Sensitive Enough . . .

"After a while this gets under a man's skin and if he's sensitive enough he takes off. Oh, it happens all right. At the big pen he can't take off, so he doesn't. Here he can, so he does."

Several prisoners said they "didn't care" for some of the guards whom they thought needed special training for open-prison work.

A few inmates suggested guards shed their uniforms and patrol in ordinary suits, an idea which brought considerable agreement from many of the guards themselves.

But overall, the 40 or so inmates thought the experiment inherent in William Head was a good one and that it was succeeding.

The inmates' welfare chairman, a 41-year-old man, put it best.

"William Head lets you think for yourself. It lets you express yourself. It lets you identify yourself."

He paused and looked thoughtfully through a newly-barred window in the corridor separating the dormitories. A prisoner on the lawn outside was staring up at an airplane.

"Maybe that's the reason

HUGE CROWD WATCHES FINAL DRESS REHEARSAL FOR MILITARY DISPLAY

Dress rehearsal for Friday's presentation by the Queen of her color to the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry drew some 3,000 Victorians to Beacon Hill Park today. In brilliant sunshine, mixed crowd watched entranced for more than an hour as ranks of stiff-backed men in khaki and two bands did their ceremonial stuff. Slow march by the PPCLI Corps of Drums, headed by

Drum Major W. E. Wyman, sparked outburst of applause as the 32-man band passed saluting base. Corps of Drums then joined Royal Canadian Engineers Band from Chilliwack for spectacular march

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Five-year-old David John Burdny was in slightly improved condition with severe head injury at Jubilee Hospital today.

The boy, son of city policeman John Burdny, 1248 Reynolds, was in collision with a car driven by Elsie K. Brown, 5417 West Saanich, in front of his home last Saturday afternoon.

Hospital medical superintendent Dr. Murray Anderson said the boy was now semi-conscious and had opened his eyes, but was still speechless.

Victoria Public Library will be closed from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday on account of the Royal visit.

Two new exhibitions opened at Victoria Art Gallery today. Vancouver artist George Kutan, who came from Czechoslovakia eight years ago, is showing prints and drawings of B.C. wildflowers and scenes of Vancouver's 1958 centennial celebrations.

The second exhibition is "The Winnipeg Show," a selection of 25 paintings from the annual survey of art in Canada sponsored by the women's committee of Winnipeg Art Gallery.

Education Minister Peterson is back at his government desk after a bout with a stomach ulcer. The 36-year-old minister suffered the attack several weeks ago and was ordered by his doctor to take treatment and a complete rest. He spent some time in hospital but did not undergo surgery.

EYES OF THE PROVINCE will be on 11-year-old Lynne Moorhouse, South Park School student, who will present the bouquet to the Queen Thursday afternoon on the steps of the Legislative Building during the official welcoming ceremonies for Her Majesty. ### ASKING FOR SCHOOL SHIFTS

Trustee Scores Bid To Freeze Building

Provincial government pressure on school boards to virtually freeze school construction "is practically asking us to put children on a shift system," a Victoria school trustee said today.

Kenneth Leeming, vice-chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, indirectly blamed Premier Bennett's direct-debt reduction program for the situation.

The government has issued two warnings to school boards to slow down construction because of high interest rates—which affect the provincial budget because construction costs are shared and bonds guaranteed by the province.

Mr. Leeming said it was impossible to reconcile the government's request to cut down high-interest debt after it has deliberately plowed large sums into early repayment of low-interest bonds obtained years ago.

"My own feeling is that we should not be asked to restrict construction of needed school buildings so that students have to go on a shift system," Mr. Leeming said.

"The government knew that a rapid increase in school population—requiring new schools—was inevitable.

"Of course debt carrying high interest rates is to be avoided if possible—but the government would have more money for assisting needed school construction had it not been so pressing in paying off the direct debt."

Board chairman Mrs. W. W. McGill said the government requests would not affect construction of a Gordon Head junior high school, last project left in the current school construction program.

"But, of course, the school board, as always, will exercise caution before spending any money on new projects," she added.

The provincial government has given two warnings to school boards in the past two weeks to slow down construction.

One was contained in a department-of-education letter to board chairmen across the province.

The other was included in an order-in-council authorizing a bylaw vote on a new school for Lillooet which recommended that "in view of the excessive current interest rates" boards consider deferring submission of building bylaws except in cases of "extreme urgency."

Ketch Disappears in Strait Five Hours Out of Victoria

A search was under way out of Seattle at noon for the 24-foot Canadian ketch Idler, missing on a cruise from Victoria to San Francisco.

With three persons aboard, the vessel was reported overdue after failing to arrive at Neah Bay, near the tip of Cape Flattery.

Seattle Coast Guard said they had a boat scouring the area and a plane checking harbor reaches and along the coast.

They had spotted no sign of the Idler at press time.

PILLAR POINT

The boat left Victoria at 9:45 a.m. Monday and has not been seen since 2 p.m. that day. She was then about 10 miles east of Pillar Point, on the Washington side of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Aboard are her owner, Ian Critchley, 28, his 24-year-old wife and a friend, Jim Stewart.

The ketch left Victoria harbor with three other boats. Galatea II was bound for a four-year global voyage, the cutter Herta for Acapulco and the 31-foot ketch Rainbird for the trio's first trip in a small craft on the high seas.

NOT GIVING IN EASILY

"We're convinced this is going to be a long, hard, drawn-out bitter fight. The operators want everything unto themselves but we are not going to give in easily."

Mr. MacKenzie said he realized the strike would cause hardship among IWA members if prolonged, "but we shall take care of them."

"When you're in a fight you're prepared to sacrifice something when you're fighting for justice. We'll look after any IWA man who comes up against it."

The official said the last IWA strike in 1952 lasted six weeks and cost the union $300,000.

"On that basis our present strike fund of $1,800,000 would take us nine months, and we could get more from organized labor across the Dominion."

BOARD NOT WANTED

Mr. MacKenzie declined comment on a suggestion that the dispute be submitted to an impartial and independent fact-finding board possibly headed by chief justice, as was suggested for the U.S. steel workers' strike.

And John Billing, president of Forest Industrial Relations, representing the 127 coast lumber operators affected by the walkout, said such a board "already exists in the conciliation board."

"A conciliation board is an independent fact-finding board," he said. "They don't have conciliation boards in the U.S."

The strike entered its ninth day today with no sign of resumption of talks and at least $25,000,000 down the provincial drain.

Mr. Billing said no new negotiations were in sight or planned.

PICKETS REMOVED

Meanwhile, B.C. Shipping Federation today served an injunction on IWA pickets at the Nanaimo assembly dock, and the pickets were quickly removed.

The injunction is good for 96 hours.

Tuesday three gangs of longshoremen and dock workers were prevented from loading lumber by about 15 IWA pickets.

This morning, following removal of pickets, nine gangs of longshoremen went to work. They are loading lumber aboard two ships, the Igof and the Cape Granville.

PAIR ROW FOR 35 MILES AFTER FISHBOAT SINKS

James and Kenneth Quinn of Victoria rowed 35 miles in a dinghy after their 40-foot halibut boat, Souplin, struck a log and sank in heavy seas off Cape Spencer, about 100 miles west of Juneau, Alaska, on the weekend.

They were picked up by an American fishboat about four or five miles from Cape Spencer.

"It was a long, grueling row in hot sunshine," said James Quinn at his home at 975 Fairfield today. "I think we would have made the coast on our own, but we were grateful for the pick-up."

Their boat was insured for $27,000.

Details of a building fund campaign for $1,500,000 will be decided by Victoria College council "within a few days."

Dr. H. H. Hickman, college principal, today said the arrangements for the public subscription will "top off" this week's crucial "firm decision" by the council to develop the present college site as the main campus and the recently acquired 120 acres in Gordon Head as an "ancillary campus."

The council is expected to time the public campaign so that it is in full swing at the beginning of the year. Appointment of an advisory board, including members from a wide range of community organizations, and a fund-raising firm will be made later.

MATCHING GRANT

If the $1,500,000 is reached, Premier W. A. C. Bennett has promised to put up a matching grant of provincial funds.

The $3,000,000 would be used for construction of an 80,000-square-foot library and science building and a new heating plant on the present campus.

It is also hoped that the money could be stretched to provide a start for student residences—possibly converted army huts at the outset—on the Gordon Head property.

CAMPUS SHIFT

The pressure of an expected enrollment of 1,000 students this fall, growing to at least 1,500 by 1963, would have created serious dislocations if the campus shift was attempted during the period of rapid growth.

In any event, college officials plan to develop the college grounds to include more facilities. Plans call for construction of athletic facilities, residences and new faculty buildings on the larger campus.

Single Dealer Now Handles Chrysler Line

Victoria Dodge-De Soto Ltd. today became the only dealer in Canada handling the full line of Chrysler automobiles.

President Ken McLennan announced the company has added Plymouth and Chrysler cars to its Dodge and De Soto dealership. The company also will sell the small Simca.

The deal was the third along Victoria's "automobile row" this month.

In adding Plymouth and Chrysler, Victoria Dodge-De Soto Ltd. is taking over the franchise formerly held by Olson Motors Ltd. The company dropped the Chrysler line Monday to become authorized Ford, Monarch and Edsel dealer.

The Ford dealership went on the block June 30 when National Motors Ltd. switched to imported, foreign autos.

Victoria Dodge-De Soto Ltd. has been in business since 1946. It was formerly known as J. M. Wood Ltd. Mr. McLennan has been president of the company for the last two years.

Why Do They Do It?

Prisoners Give Views Of William Head Escapes

(Since the experimental "minimum security" wing of the B.C. Penitentiary was opened at William Head seven months ago six men have escaped. As there are no bars or walls to the prison, an escape is easily engineered. But the whole purpose of the institution is one of rehabilitation for men who it is felt can be made to fit into society again and they are more or less on their honor not to run away. Why then do they do it? They are almost certain to be caught and must then go back to the walled pen at New Westminster and serve extra time. Times reporter David Cowlishaw spent Tuesday afternoon talking to the inmates to find the answer. He was given full run of the establishment and talked to the men without supervision or presence of guards. The only condition was that he would not quote any prisoner by name. In the following article he sums up their stories.)

By DAVID COWLISHAW

They were young, they were tempted by the blue far-off horizon they could see through the open door, and they were bedeviled by a whim.

This, volunteered in a myriad of forms, is the persistent trinity of reasons advanced by William Head inmates Tuesday for six escapes from the "open" penitentiary in the last two months.

There were other explanations, of course, but more than half of some 40 prisoners interviewed put forward one, two or all of the above solutions.

"None of the escapees was much more than a boy," said a Vancouver man serving four years for rape.

"I knew three of them very well. They weren't bored or frustrated or really unhappy or anything like that. They simply couldn't stand the

UNION BOSS LOOKS ON AS TV CAMERA WRECKED

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company said today that David J. McDonald, Steelworkers Union president, allowed two aides to wreck a television camera because he was angered over a question asked him in Trenton, N.J., Tuesday night.

The question was whether McDonald's career would be affected by the steel strike he ordered Tuesday midnight, NBC said. McDonald refused to answer the questioner, Tom Pettit for NBC's Philadelphia affiliate, WRC-TV, and demanded the film be given him, the network said.

When Pettit refused, two unidentified men with McDonald smashed the camera on the sidewalk and wrecked sound and lighting equipment, NBC charged.

There was no immediate comment from McDonald on the story.

'Cut Your Price' West Urges Reds

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers urged the Soviet Union at the Big Four foreign ministers conference today to lower its price for an 18-month truce in the Berlin crisis.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at once rejected the appeal.

He said his proposal for a truce was directly linked with his plan for creation of an East-West German committee to negotiate on unification and it was impossible to change that fact.

ALLIED ARGUMENT

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, speaking for the Western allies, argued against the Soviet plan for a German committee.

He said the Soviet proposal only reopened earlier discussions on broad German political issues in Geneva that already had resulted in failure to reach agreement.

The problem of reaching a stop-gap agreement on Berlin is separate from the broader issues of German unity and a peace treaty de Murville insisted.

The French minister said Russia's linking the two elements "frankly does not appear to me to facilitate conclusion of an agreement."

HUGE CROWD WATCHES FINAL DRESS REHEARSAL FOR MILITARY DISPLAY

Dress rehearsal for Friday's presentation by the Queen of her color to the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry drew some 3,000 Victorians to Beacon Hill Park today. In brilliant sunshine, mixed crowd watched entranced for more than an hour as ranks of stiff-backed men in khaki and two bands did their ceremonial stuff. Slow march by the PPCLI Corps of Drums, headed by

Drum Major W. E. Wyman, sparked outburst of applause as the 32-man band passed saluting base. Corps of Drums then joined Royal Canadian Engineers Band from Chilliwack for spectacular march

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Five-year-old David John Burdny was in slightly improved condition with severe head injury at Jubilee Hospital today.

The boy, son of city policeman John Burdny, 1248 Reynolds, was in collision with a car driven by Elsie K. Brown, 5417 West Saanich, in front of his home last Saturday afternoon.

Hospital medical superintendent Dr. Murray Anderson said the boy was now semi-conscious and had opened his eyes, but was still speechless.

Victoria Public Library will be closed from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday on account of the Royal visit.

Two new exhibits opened at Victoria Art Gallery today. Vancouver artist George Kuhn, who came from Czechoslovakia eight years ago, is showing prints and drawings of B.C. wildflowers and scenes of Vancouver's 1958 centennial celebrations.

The second exhibition is "The Winnipeg Show," a selection of 25 paintings from the annual survey of art in Canada sponsored by the women's committee of Winnipeg Art Gallery.

Education Minister Peterson is back at his government desk after a bout with a stomach ulcer. The 36-year-old minister suffered the attack several weeks ago and was ordered by his doctor to take treatment and a complete rest. He spent some time in hospital, but did not undergo surgery.

Saanich lands and planning committee Tuesday turned down a suggestion of Coun. Stanley Murphy that it investigate the advantages and disadvantages of joining with Victoria in the construction of a new city hall.

But the committee authorized Coun. Murphy to explore the possibility of leasing office space in the proposed $1,800,000 city hall now being considered by City Council.

Two Victoria youngsters, Ronald and Douglas Muir, 1099 Jasmine, are among 70 junior forest wardens from the lower mainland, southern interior and Vancouver Island who will be attending the second summer training camp of the 1959 season, which opens at Lightfoot Park, West Vancouver, on Friday.

Sponsored by the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C., the camp features courses in conservation and wilderness survival, leading to the Wardeens' new Frontiersman Degree.

Quarterly general meeting of Victoria Unit No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada will be held in the auditorium, 1001 Wharf Street, Thursday at 8 p.m.

A Victoria man was charged in city police court today with carrying an offensive weapon, but the complainant ended up paying the penalty.

Charge against David H. Inglis was withdrawn at request of complainant George H. Burnett, who said he had additional information regarding the circumstances.

The weapon was a knife, court was told.

"There has been a veritable rash of charges in the last week in which the complainants come up a day or so later to withdraw," Magistrate William Ostler remarked. "It's simply using the court . . .

He charged Burnett $5 costs.

ASKING FOR SCHOOL SHIFTS

Trustee Scores Bid To Freeze Building

Provincial government pressure on school boards to virtually freeze school construction "is practically asking us to put children on a shift system," a Victoria school trustee said today.

Kenneth Leeming, vice-chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, indirectly blamed Premier Bennett's direct-debt reduction program for the situation.

The government has issued two warnings to school boards to "slow down construction because of high interest rates" which affect the provincial budget because construction costs are shared and bonds guaranteed by the province.

Mr. Leeming said it was impossible to reconcile the government's request to cut down high-interest debt after it has deliberately plowed-large sums into early repayment of low-interest bonds obtained years ago.

"My own feeling is that we should not be asked to restrict

ASK The TIMES

Q. Would you please give me information regarding Johnston Island. Is it still a British possession? Land area? Population?

A. Johnston Island was discovered by the British in 1807, and has been a part of the U.S. defense system since 1834. There's a U.S. naval air station there, but apart from that, nothing much. Population at last count was 60 persons. It's a coral atoll, comprising two small islands and a reef, 12 miles in circumference, centered in the Pacific Ocean about 700 miles southwest of Honolulu. For census purposes it forms part of Honolulu.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times." Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of general interest to the public. The Times does not undertake to solve controversies or legal problems. Nor does it accept responsibility for any errors, omissions or inaccuracies. There should be submitted to dealers.

Richard Charles, 3833 East Sooke, pleaded guilty to a rarely-laid charge of drunken driving and a second charge of driving without a licence, for which he was given one month concurrent.

Charles was driver of a car which was wrecked against a tree on the wrong side of West Saanich Road last Thursday afternoon, in which himself and a passenger were injured.

"It is hard to imagine a worse driving record," Magistrate William Ostler remarked after reading a probation report.

The most astonishing part of it is that all these offences were committed without ever having held a driver's licence.

MOTOR FAILS

Fishermen Rescued From Rocks

Two Victoria fishermen reported overdue late Tuesday after a day-long trip off Race Rocks were found safe by an RCMP search party near Church Island at 2 a.m.

Glen Lageri, 24, of 964 Ambassador, said the 13-foot boat carrying himself and Grant Hallberg, 25, of 1710 Kings, nearly swamped as six to eight-foot waves caught it and stopped its five horsepower outboard motor.

The boat drifted at the mercy of rough seas, half-filling the craft and sending it onto rocks at Church Island, where the men managed to drag it part way ashore and tried to empty the water.

"We were fishing near Beechey Head when all of a sudden the water got rough about 3 p.m.

WAVE TOO BIG

"There were about 8-foot rolls and we just caught one too big for the boat. It stopped our motor.

"We had about 12 or 13 fish—bass, cod and salmon—which we lost out of the boat.

"She was really taking water. The tide pushed us and we got up on the rock. Water was still coming over the boat when it was beached."

By this time it was about 7:30 p.m., he said, but they felt they could launch the boat when the waves subsided and get back across the bay to where they had started from at Smith's farm.

Waves continued to pound after dark, so Lageri and Hallberg built a fire high on the rocks where it could be seen across the bay.

Someone reported the blaze to Sooke RCMP detachment, and Cons. Patrick Eastman with two other men set out to investigate.

The men returned home at 4:30 a.m., 22 hours after they had left.

Beer Drinkers Fined

Two young men who made the mistake of drinking beer at outdoor parties were fined $50 each in Saanich police court Tuesday.

William John Harding, 19, of 2840 Richmond, was found drinking beer at a Mount Douglas beach party. Gordon Alan Provins, 1601 Esquimalt, was picked up at Beaver Lake.

Impaired for Third Time Licenceless Driver Jailed

A man who never held a driver's licence was convicted for the third time on an alcohol-impaired driving charge and was sentenced in Saanich police court Tuesday to four months in jail.

Richard Charles, 3833 East Sooke, pleaded guilty to a rarely-laid charge of drunken driving and a second charge of driving without a licence, for which he was given one month concurrent.

Charles was driver of a car which was wrecked against a tree on the wrong side of West Saanich Road last Thursday afternoon, in which himself and a passenger were injured.

PAIR ROW FOR 35 MILES AFTER FISHBOAT SINKS

James and Kenneth Quinn of Victoria rowed 35 miles in a dinghy after their 40-foot halibut boat, Soufflin, struck a log and sank in heavy seas off Cape Spencer, about 100 miles west of Juneau, Alaska, on the weekend.

They were picked up by an American fishboat about four or five miles from Cape Spencer.

"It was a long grueling row in hot sunshine," said James Quinn at his home at 975 Fairfield today. "I think we would have made the coast on our own, but we were grateful for the pick-up."

Their boat was insured for $27,000.

College Drive Date Known Soon

Details of a building fund campaign for $1,500,000 will be decided by Victoria College council "within a few days."

Dr. H. H. Hickman, college principal, today said the arrangements for the public subscription will top off this week's crucial "firm decision" by the council to develop the present college site as the main campus and the recently acquired 120 acres in Gordon Head as an "ancillary campus."

The council is expected to time the public campaign so that it is in full swing at the beginning of the year. Appointment of an advisory board, including members from a wide range of community organizations, and a fund-raising firm will be made later.

MATCHING GRANT

If the $1,500,000 is reached, Premier W. A. C. Bennett has promised to put up a matching grant of provincial funds.

The $3,000,000 would be used for construction of an 80,000-square-foot library and science building and a new heating plant on the present campus.

It is also hoped that the money could be stretched to provide a start for student residences—possibly converted army huts at the outset—on the Gordon Head property.

A gymnasium and playing field will be ready at Gordon Head for use this fall.

"If there is to be a university in Victoria, developed along the lines of Victoria College council's decision, it will require the unanimous support of all citizens," Dr. Hickman stressed.

The decision to develop the present college site as a main campus follows numerous discussions and some controversy on the best development procedure. College officials listed several factors as prominent reasons for the decision:

Fifty-three acres is considered sufficient for a teaching campus of 2,000 or 3,000 students. In fact, some universities have enrollment 10 times that size accommodated on about 50 acres.

Shifting development emphasis to the Gordon Head property would have meant virtual abandonment of the present buildings, considered a wasteful course. In addition, it would be impossible to obtain $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 immediately which would be necessary to establish the Gordon Head property as the main campus.

The ketch Idler, reported missing since 2 p.m. Monday on a cruise from Victoria to San Francisco, berthed at Government Wharf in Sooke shortly after 1 p.m. today.

The wife of Sooke RCMP constable Pat Eastman said her husband spoke to the three persons aboard and reported they were "quite happy and well and in no trouble."

She said he went to the wharf after receiving a telephone call that the Idler had turned up there.

The boat was reported overdue after failing to arrive as scheduled at Neah Bay near the tip of Cape Flattery, sparking a wide hunt by air-sea rescue in Vancouver and later by Port Angeles and Seattle Coast Guard.

Aboard the Idler when she left Victoria early Monday were her owner, Ian Critchley, 28, his 24-year-old wife and a friend, Jim Stewart.

The Idler had not been seen since 2 p.m. Monday, when she was about 10 miles east of Pillar Point on the Washington side of Juan de Fuca Strait.

At press time a member of the wharf staff was attempting to contact the trio aboard the Idler but reported the boat had moved away from the wharf and made no answer to his shouts.

Thursday Inquest In Police Death

An inquest into the death of city motorcycle constable Earle Doyle after a traffic crash Sunday will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at McCall's funeral home.

Police said coroner Dr. J. H. Moore will hold a full inquest.

Cons. Doyle, 29, died in his motorcycle crashed head-on into a car driven at Douglas and Francis by Edward G. Whitehouse, 4025 Saanich.

He suffered head and multiple injuries when he landed head-first on the pavement. Witnesses said his crash helmet flew off before he struck the street.

McCall's said funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today, Robert J. Clemens, 1535 Edgeware, $35; William L. Williams, 971 Linkleas, $40; William E. Bernaskey, 606 Fraser, $40 and licence suspension, for careless driving.

Robert J. Bada, 1250 Pandora, $25 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

"A conciliation board is an independent fact-finding board," he said. "They don't have conciliation boards in the U.S."

The strike entered its ninth day today with no sign of resumption of talks and at least $25,000,000 down the provincial drain.

Mr. Billings said no new negotiations were in sight or planned.

PICKETS REMOVED

Meanwhile, B.C. Shipping Federation today served an injunction on IWA pickets at the Nanaimo assembly dock, and the pickets were quickly removed.

The injunction is good for 96 hours.

WILLIAM HEAD

Inmates felt young men with fierce natural drives should not have to be tempted by the freedom an open penitentiary such as William Head enjoys, and they almost unanimously sought to excuse the escapees' running away. Only two of the men interviewed claimed to be annoyed over the escapes. Their colleagues lay no blame because in the words of one man, "It hasn't hurt us any."

"Oh sure," he said. "They have put grills on the windows and taken the doors off the dormitories so the guards can see us better and count us quicker, but everybody knows that's just to keep the public happy."

"There haven't been any

Majority Reasons for Escape

A majority gave these reasons for the rash of escapes:

- Boredom.
- "Double-cross" by parole officials.

- Domestic problems.

- The attitude of at least two of the escapees that they had "nothing to lose" by breaking out.

- Preference by some of the six for another term in prison to the frightening prospect of competing as ex-convicts for jobs on the outside.

- Sex.

- Guards who "don't like us."

In addition, two men said the four youths who engineered the second break in June had been drinking "home-made brew" and didn't know what they were doing, but this idea was discounted by most other inmates interviewed.

Many prisoners became surprisingly bitter when the youth of the escapees—one was 19, one 21, one 22, two 23 and one 25—was mentioned.

"Those Ottawa guys who thought it was a smart idea to put kids like that in a place as open as this ought to have their heads examined," snapped a 40-year-old man in for robbery.

"You can't expect young men to be happy sitting around fishing or watching television all day."

An Animal Put In a Cage

Said a Victoria man almost at the end of a five-year term for bank robbery, "Ever seen an animal put in a cage? The human mind is a funny thing. When you're young you do what you want and to hell with the consequences."

"Those kids wanted to get out. They wanted women. Some of them had only a few more weeks to go but they just couldn't stow any longer."

Seven inmates seemed almost to have compared notes in their conviction that location of the experimental station was at the bottom of the escapists.

A fellow who works outside and looks at the green trees and blue water all day privileges taken away. Mr. Grant (John Grant, chief supervisor) gave us a lecture, but that's all."

No, they weren't angry at the six men. Rather, they directed their hostility toward a nebulous "them" — apparently the Ottawa penal officials who have the last say in any policy decisions affecting William Head and its parent B.C. Penitentiary.

Most inmates spoken to called for a better system of "screening" men considered likely prospects for William Head; particularly they urged that men in the younger age brackets (such as the wayward six) be kept at the main penitentiary.

(Mr. Grant himself has indicated he favors better screening and has also suggested a deeper probe into the backgrounds of men tentatively destined for William Head.)

gets some funny ideas when the gates clang shut," volunteered one 32-year-old prisoner.

"It's not human to make a man stare at these things all day. It's like hanging a carrot over a donkey's head. It's cruel."

Several men said they had had to control a strong whim or inclination to flee William Head—even for a few hours for which they would have to pay dearly—and understood how, according to them, the escapees must have felt.

Commented one crew-cut youth leaning against the television room door, "I'd get out of here myself if I had guts enough."

Prisoners Approve of Warden

At the local level, inmates found no fault with Mr. Grant's administration.

"He's a good egg," said one man. Another described him as a "top-notcher." A third used the term "real solid guy" while several others said their chief supervisor would do "a lot more for us if his hands weren't tied by those guys in Ottawa."

Boredom was the principal of the minority reasons advanced by inmates for the six escapes in the last two months.

Four and, in part five, men thought the six would not have broken out had they been given "something constructive to do during the day" and more interesting amusements in the five-hour "yard time" from 5 to 10 p.m.

"What can you do around here after five o'clock?" demanded a Vancouver man with two weeks to go in four-year sentence for rape.

"One day you play ball. Next day you go fishing. But that's all. There's nothing else to do and you can never play ball and go fishing on the same day."

Guards explained they could not be in two places at the same time. They also pointed out there were many hobbies available, including leatherwork, stone masonry, piano, woodwork, cards and nighty television. One guard said the inmates enjoyed more and better privileges than he ever knew.)

"Hyack" means "Hurry Up."

ROYAL SALUTE

The group fired a Royal salute, using the ancient method, that of placing a charge of powder on top of one anvil, inverting another anvil on the powder, and touching off the explosion with a long, long pull.

The Hyack Battery has been operating since 1871, when it was brought into use because the only cannon in the new city threatened to blow apart.

Major Elizabeth Wood introduced officials representing nearby municipalities and local V.C. winner, Smoky Smith.

Major Wood told the Queen that this is B.C.'s oldest city, and the Royal city, named by Queen Victoria.

Eighteen four and five-year-old girls, in frilly gowns and white gloves, danced like kittens, with baskets of flowers before the dais.

Then May Queen Linda Gibson, 11, presented a bouquet.

WESTERN TEAMS RUSH GRID SEASON

CALGARY (CP)—The curtain goes up tonight on the 1959 football season when Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Eskimos meet here in one of the earliest exhibition games ever scheduled.

The clubs have had less than two full weeks of workouts and while both say they are out to win, the game will be chiefly a testing ground for the more than 40 players attending each camp, many of whom won't be around when the Western Interprovincial Football Union season opens Aug. 13.

Calgary coach Ota Douglas is on the spot and must produce a contender this year. Douglas claims he can, provided he puts some punch into the offensive line and finds a first-rate quarterback.

Another of the wayward six was said to have learned that his fiancée had been "taken over" by his brother and he broke out of William Head to prevent a possible marriage, but this story could not be documented.

Figured Nothing to Lose

Inmates said also that the most recent escapee, Karl Kurbis, escaped because he knew his fate deportation to Poland when he completed his three-year term for forgery, and similarly "figured he couldn't lose nothing."

Kurbis was recaptured Saturday and on Monday given another two years for escaping legal custody. Sykes was sentenced to another year, to be served concurrently with his original 20-year "life" term.)

His former fellow convicts said Kurbis, too, had been told (by an unspecified "them") that he would qualify for parole, then allegedly "dumped."

"But Kurbis would have broken out anyhow," said one young prisoner. "He was a funny guy, he was. He used to just stare at you working for about 15 minutes, then walk away without saying a word."

Possibility that the six were spurred to flee by domestic problems was not seriously considered as a reason for the breakouts, although one of the escapees—Alvin Boehm, 23, who fled in June—was said to have received a letter "that disturbed him a lot" shortly before he absconded.

Another of the wayward six was said to have learned that his fiancée had been "taken over" by his brother and he broke out of William Head to prevent a possible marriage, but this story could not be documented.

Did They Want To Be Caught?

Few inmates put much credence in several prisoners' suggestions that the six, or some of them, broke out in order to be caught and sent back for longer terms to avoid the prospect of having to start life again as an ex-convict in com-support to this explanation for the escapes as they did to another one that suggested the six fled to avoid trouble with some of the guards.

Said a man doing time for passing bad checks: "A few of the guards here don't like to see us get the freedom we get."

"They're mad because we don't have it as tough as the guys at the big pen, and they go around here swinging keys and trying to act as though we're a bunch of bad criminals and they have to be on the watch all the time."

There will be no official engagements in the evening.

Meanwhile city hotels, motels and transportation companies today prepared for what they term "the big invasion."

Planes, ships and cars will bring thousands of Canadians and American tourists to the city tonight and Thursday morning in time for the arrival of the royal couple in the afternoon.

City hotels and auto courts are booked out for Thursday and Friday but there are still some vacancies in auto courts along the Gorge Road and beyond the city limits.

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau is swamped with inquiries for late accommodations.

City officials also reported that the special table, on which the official guest book will rest when the Queen signs the register, has been polished to a gleaming sheen.

It will be draped with a special scarf and equipped with a special pen that has been reserved for royalty.

The measure, voted 90 to 0, now goes to a Senate-House of Representatives conference to reconcile differences with a House-passed version. The House voted $746,000,000 less than the Senate.

The Senate bill contains $380,000,000 to build a second bridge.

The large, enthusiastic crowd at the tunnel, 15 miles southwest of here, was a marked contrast with a sparse turnout here earlier.

The Queen snipped a blue ribbon with a pair of silver shears handed her by Premier

Bennett to open the tunnel, part of a four-lane freeway under the Fraser River which will eventually extend from Vancouver to the United States border.

The over-spending was made up by the federal treasury which kicked in a total of $156,565 in parliamentary grants and earmarked taxes, up by $10,400,000 from 1957-58.

The rest of the budget included record gross commercial revenues of $32,093,505 received from program sponsors and $1,101,017 in other forms of income.

Depreciation allowance of

$2,523,466 is included in the record expenditures, more than half of which went into the production of radio and television programs.

The figures were given in the annual report tabled today in the Commons. Unlike reports of past years, there is no breakdown of spending on radio and TV.

However, it is understood that CBC radio services cost roughly $16,000,000 a year, which would leave about $71,000,000 for television last year.

The riots began when native "shebeen queens" — women who make their living by brewing and selling illegal liquor — protested the ban on their stills.

In Cato Manor police arrested eight Africans Tuesday night and destroyed 4,400 gallons of liquor.

BLAIR'S MARK AT ARMY

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)

Earl Blaik, who retired after the 1958 season as head football coach at Army, left behind a record of 121 wins, 33 losses, and 10 ties in 18 years as the Cadets' coach.

The Queen and Duke entered, an elevator immediately and went upstairs.

Inside the hotel, 2,000 persona crammed every available inch along the rope barriers and lined 10 and 15 deep trying to catch a glimpse of the Royal couple.
